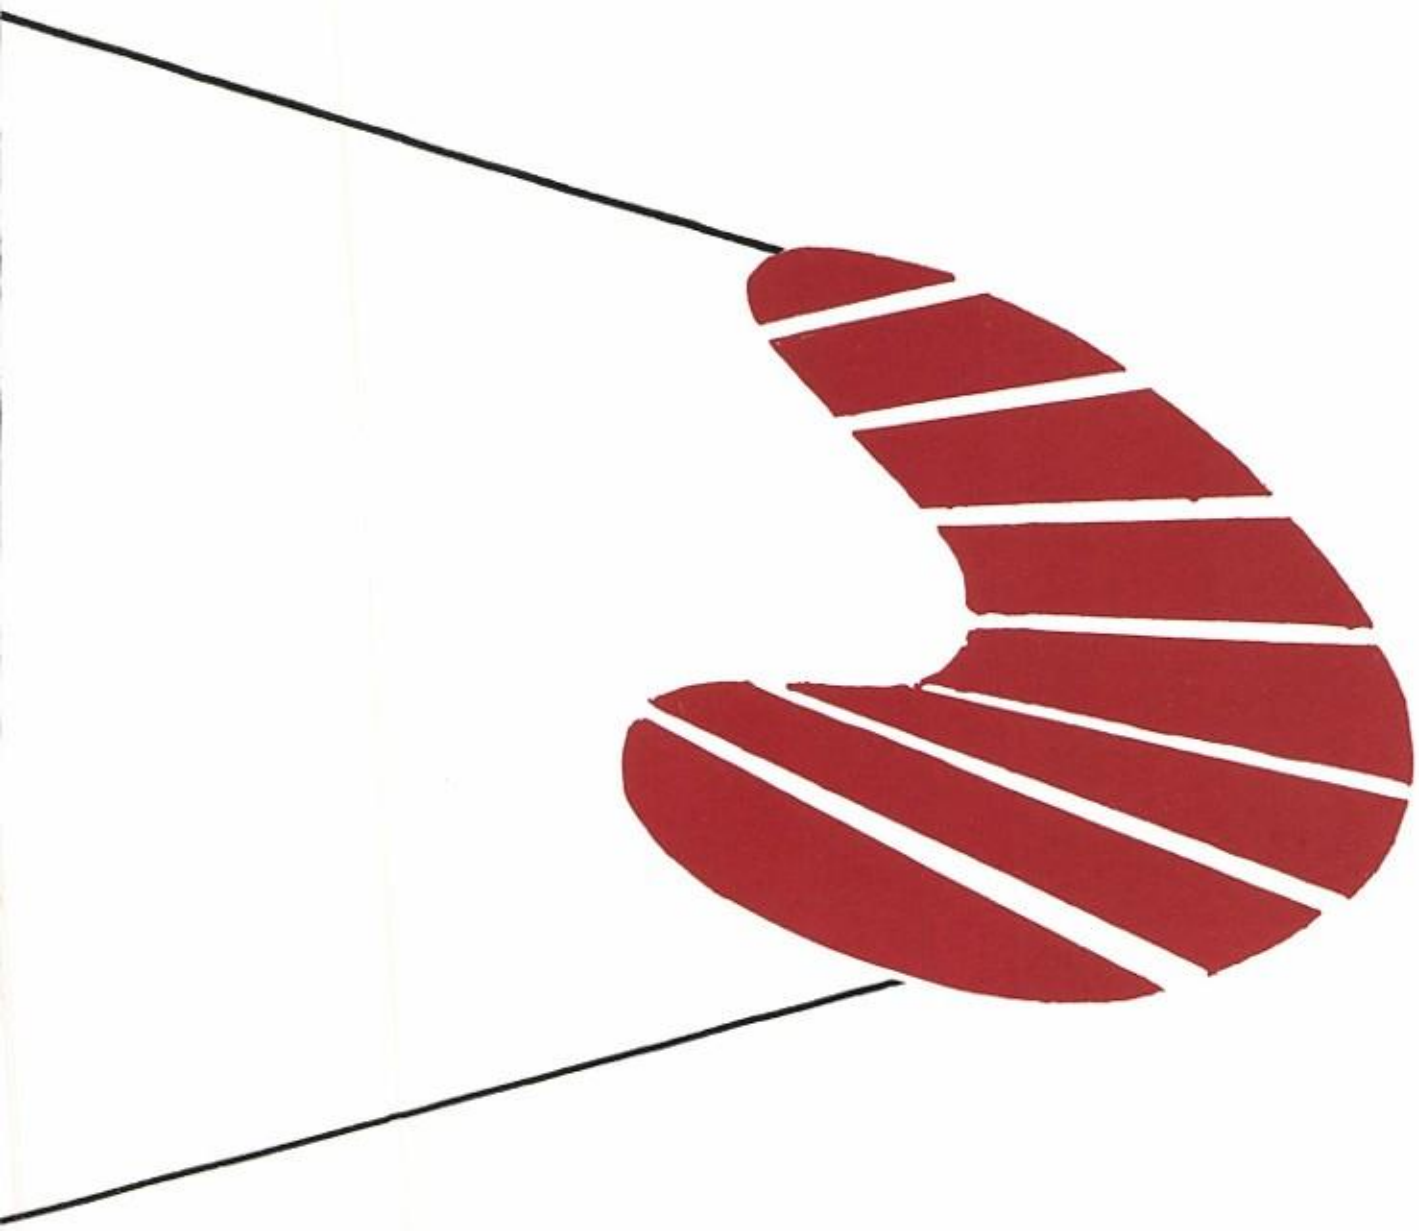
mt. lebanon high school



A school, any school, whether steeped in vine-covered tradition or streamlined in ultra-modern boldness, a tired P.S. 19 on a country road or a monstrous acre-eater covering whole city blocks, a modern magnifico of Vermont marble or a forlorn one-roomer of weathered red brick, is only the reflection of one omnipotent force, an all-powerful force dominating its environment, a force known simply as the students.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Seated: Mr. Robert F. Dyson, Miss Miriam Headley, Mr. Elmer S. Stanier, Mrs. Donald C. Lewis, Mr. Beckley Smith. Standing: Mr. William C. Berg, Mr. Edward Buck, Mr. Samuel A. Schreiner, Mr. Otis C. Hogsett.

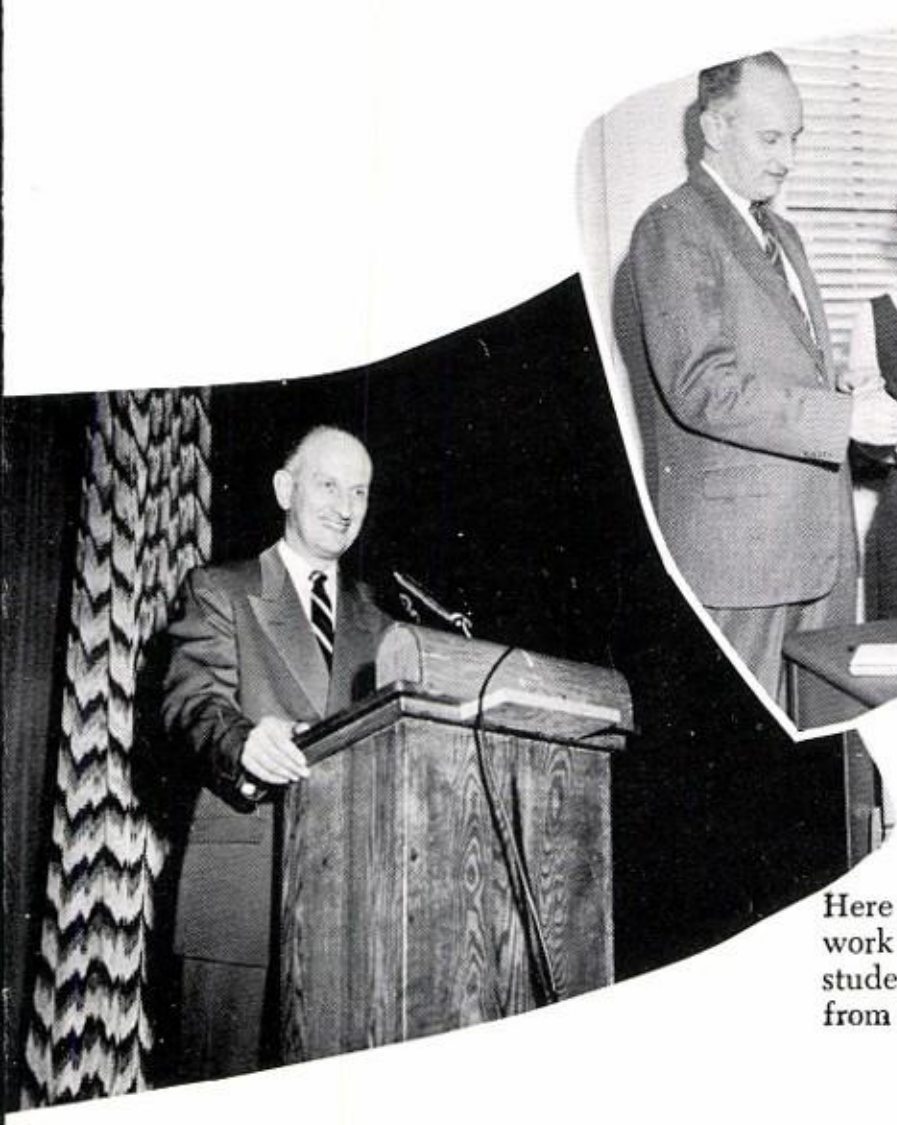
planning our today

The vigor and enthusiasm of a new Board of Education was guided into the correct channels this year by veteran tars, Drs. Ralph D. Horsman and Joseph C. Keifer.

At the end of the year, after traveling these channels for many months, they were just around the bend and within whistle-tooting distance of their destination — the completion of Mount Lebanon High School's magnificent new wing.

The high school program is only one of many which the Board must administer. Also under their supervision are Mount Lebanon's six grade schools and Mellon Junior High, all of which receive the same care and attention that has marked their handling of high school business.

Dr. Mills, although comparatively new to the principalship, has done a fine job of keeping things running smoothly. No matter what the problem, he is the one who can find the solution, and it is to him that much of the credit goes for making our school a success.



Here we find our principal as he goes about his daily work consulting with his secretaries, addressing the student body, and observing the students as they go from class to class.

Always a willing and interested adviser is Dr. Carl Streams, Mount Lebanon's doctor of schedule ailments. Since he has been vice-principal, he has added many new and useful courses to the curriculum. Although his task as mender of schedules is a difficult and, often, complicated one, he always demonstrates efficiency and a genuine appreciation of the problem at hand. Pictured here, secretary Mrs. Davies ushers in a new patient.

The guidance counselors, Mrs. Horne and Mr. Nicklas as well as their secretary Mrs. Irwin, know that a busy day is just routine. Helping a student decide what he is going to do after he is finished with high school poses just as great a problem as guiding him while he is still in high school. College Boards, vocational aptitude tests, college meetings, career conferences—these are just a few of the benefits we receive through the guidance department for the planning of our future.

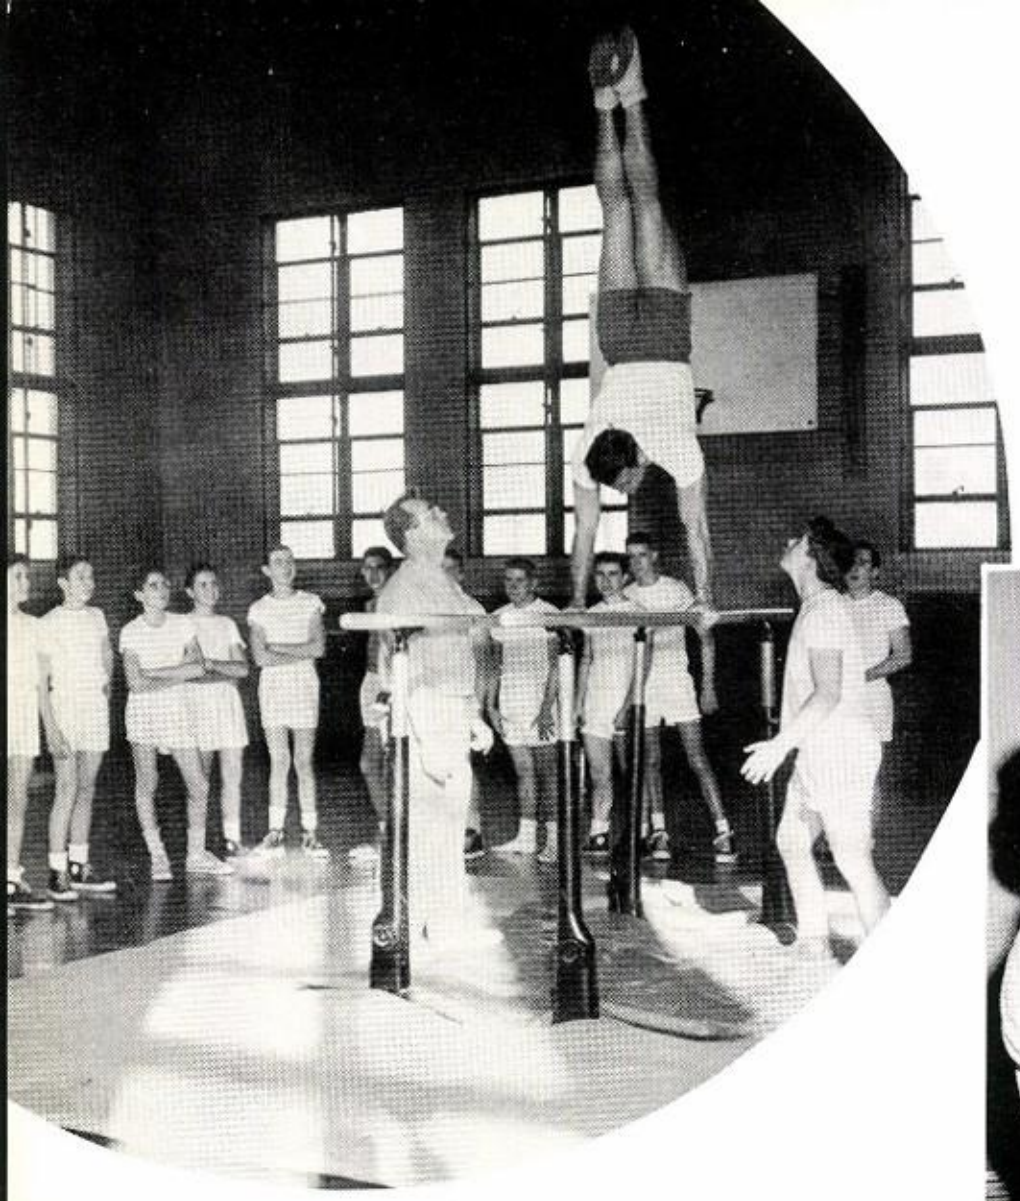
Want an early dismissal? You'll have to see Mrs. Morgan or Miss Visocky in the Attendance Office. If you don't see them, you'll end up seeing Miss Gordon, our home and school visitor. These women are confronted with the almost superhuman task of keeping track of all the students in Mt. Lebanon High School.

The medical office has changed its name to dispensary and its location to one of the new rooms, but our school nurse, Miss High, still remains that efficient person who has a remedy for all ills—including false ones.

Mrs. Cargill, our activities sponsor, handles everything from activities keys to stuffed dogs. Among other things which occupy her time are Ways and Means, the Student Congress and Student Court. Her ability to efficiently organize her department has won student approval.



If you don't answer to your "John Henry" in this class, you're probably deaf. Otherwise you'd just be "dying" to take those exercises.

These girls aren't dissecting a real man! This mound of muscles is just "Liverace", a new addition to the health classes this year.

Mrs. Geraldine C. Adamson—English; Mr. David A. Batchelor—General Math, General Science; Miss Marguerite Beck—German; Mr. John P. Beckert—Gym; Mr. Albert W. Bernhardy—Machine Shop.

"Pass it to me" echoed around the school as the girls suffered battered bones and shattered shins in field hockey this year. And the common cold became even commoner!

If you like chopping frogs and charming snakes, then biology is the class for you! Here, John, Terry, and Pat puzzle over pisciculture.

Miss Margaret J. Billingsley—Girls' Health, Personal Adjustment; Dr. Lawrence E. Bromberick—Chemistry; Miss Joanne Bruning—English; Miss Miriam Bulger—Latin; Mr. Merle R. Burrows—Economics, Sociology, Principles of Selling;

Mrs. Edith M. Clark—Algebra;

Mrs. Eleanor T. Rinne—English; Miss Rita M. Roegge—Spanish; Mr. Robert A. Ruth—Physics; Mr. Douglas Shaner — Metal Art, Art; Miss Donna Jean Shaver — Gym;

Mr. Victor M. Doak—U. S. History; Miss Virginia A. Elliott—English; Miss Alice Elms—Algebra; Miss Elizabeth A. Evans—English; Mr. Harry E. Felich—Algebra.

Mr. Ralph D. Fife—Boys' Health, Gym.

Miss Pauline K. Fish — Home Economics.

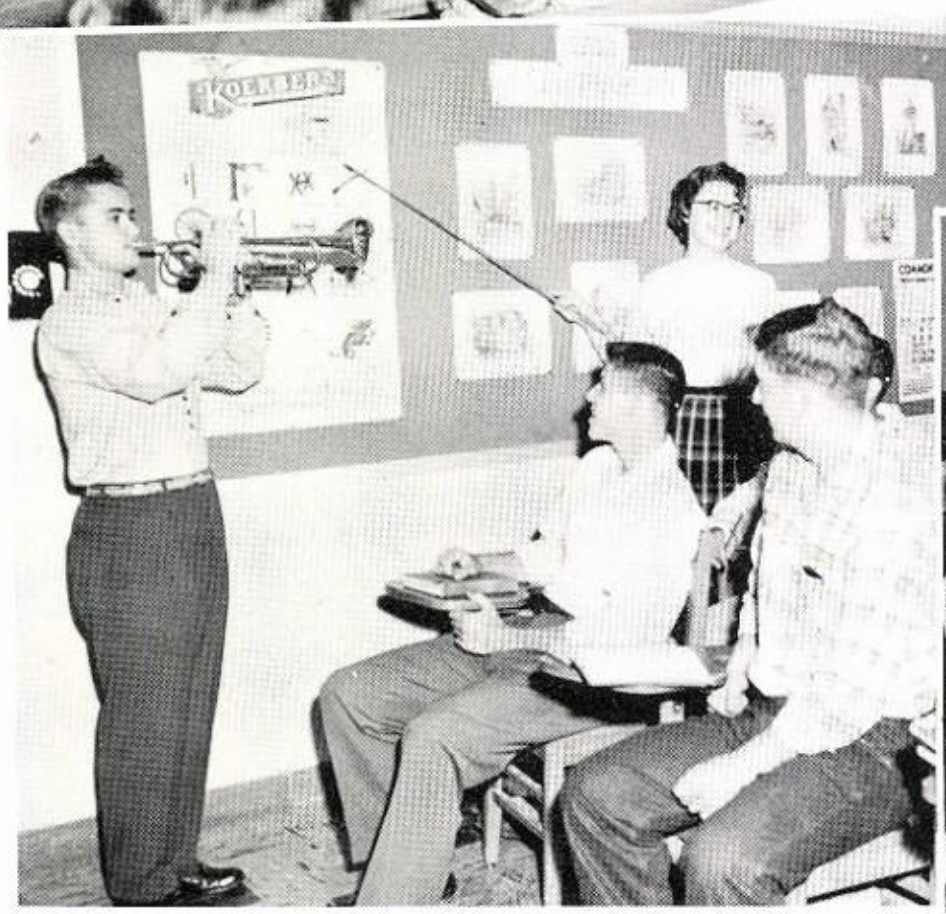
No; not Lily Pons, Patrice Munsel, or Anna Maria Alberghetti—just Janet Munn leading another of Miss Mae Sneary's student-conducted classes.

By having unusual bulletin boards, displays and reading material, Mrs. Ruth Furlong gave students an opportunity to enrich their literature course.

Eric, Jack, Joan, and Jamee have turned Miss Elliott's Honor English class into God's office as they enact a scene from Green Pastures.

With Audrey and Nancy trying to drag their beaus away from Stevie, it looks as if Mr. Myers is the only one eligible. But what would speech class do without Mr. Myers?

Students are hailed with an "Eh, bien!" as Monsieur Jones returns test papers to his French class. "Eh, bien!" and conversational French in general played an interesting part in the course this year.



"Ist das nicht ein Schnitzelbanke? Ya, das ist ein Schnitzelbanke." So sings Carlynn Nill as Henry Billeter blows a hot German trumpet in a Deutschland jam session.

When in Rome—either Rome 2 or Rome 223 —do as the Romans do. Here, doing just what the Romans did do, are Alice Myers and Chris Petty.

Miss Katheryn H. Frobese — English; Mrs. Ruth S. Furlong—English; Mr. Sherrick Gilbert—Biology; Mr. Norman L. Goodwin—Algebra, Plane Geometry; Miss Dorothy H. Grove—Commercial Subjects.

"Whose powerful stroke will break the sad pinata?" wonder Maureen, Carolyn, Elaine, and Sue, as they take their turns at slugging the battered bird.

Mt. Lebanon's foreign exchange students, Kari of Norway and "Didi" of Turkey, have seen quite a bit of the globe.

Miss Jean Hay — English; Miss Sylvia Hubacher — French; Mr. Howard M. Jones—French; Mrs. Elizabeth G. Killen—Latin; Mr. George W. Kline—Global Geography, U. S. History, Geography of Strategic Areas.

Mr. George Lamprinakos — Driving.

Miss Mildred Lenk—English.

Miss Kathryn Levos—World History.

Mr. Charles O. Lohr—Biology, Commercial Math., Business Math.

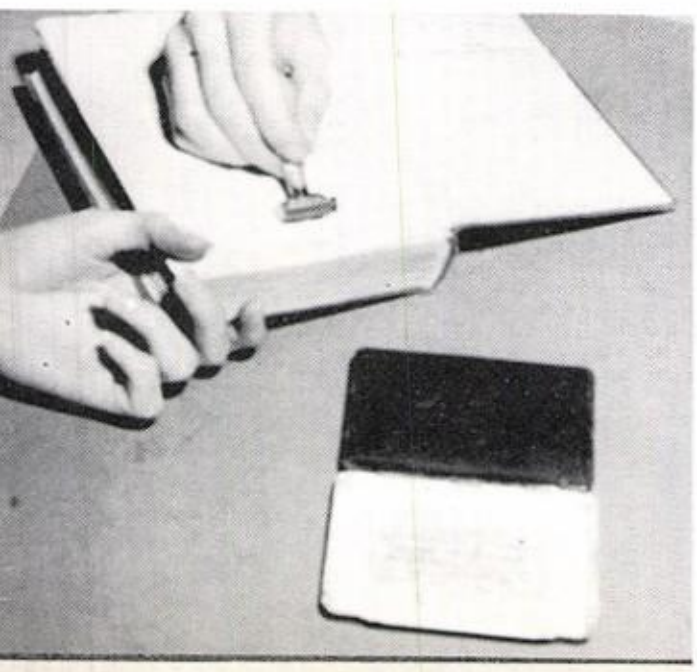
Jim, Myron, and Bob demonstrate something to the class which only physics students would understand.

Miss Margery J. McClure—Latin.

Miss Florence McLaughlin—English, Journalism; Miss Marianne MacMain—English; Miss Harriet N. Manning—English; Miss Josephine N. Martin—English; Mr. John F. Mehner—Biology.

Bookworms love it, 120-C students can't do without it, freshmen get lost in it — this is the Library. For twenty-five years, all the planning, filing, and tracking down, which the librarian's job entails, had been in the competent hands of Miss Moore. This year, however, Miss Moore chose to step down, transferring the reins of power to her assistants, Miss Heslep and Mrs. Wallace. The loss of Miss Moore's vast knowledge of the Library's every nook and cranny, every book, pamphlet, and periodical, was, of course, a serious one, but the new regime carried on her fine work without break of stride.

The school life of the students revolves around this, the biggest, most valuable, and possibly the most beautiful part of the school. A reference room, a browsing room, a reading room, it serves, at some time or another, every one of Mt. Lebanon's nearly two thousand inhabitants, both students and teachers. It is indeed the intellectual center of all Mt. Lebanon.



Miss Jo Anne Mihm—English; Mr. William A. Mitchell—Typing.

Mr. Donley U. Mollenauer — U. S. History; Mr. Wilbur Moore—Civics.

Hearing a scream from behind the car, Chuck Williams backs up to investigate. These motorized maniacs frustrated their companions, but soon learned that safe driving really pays.

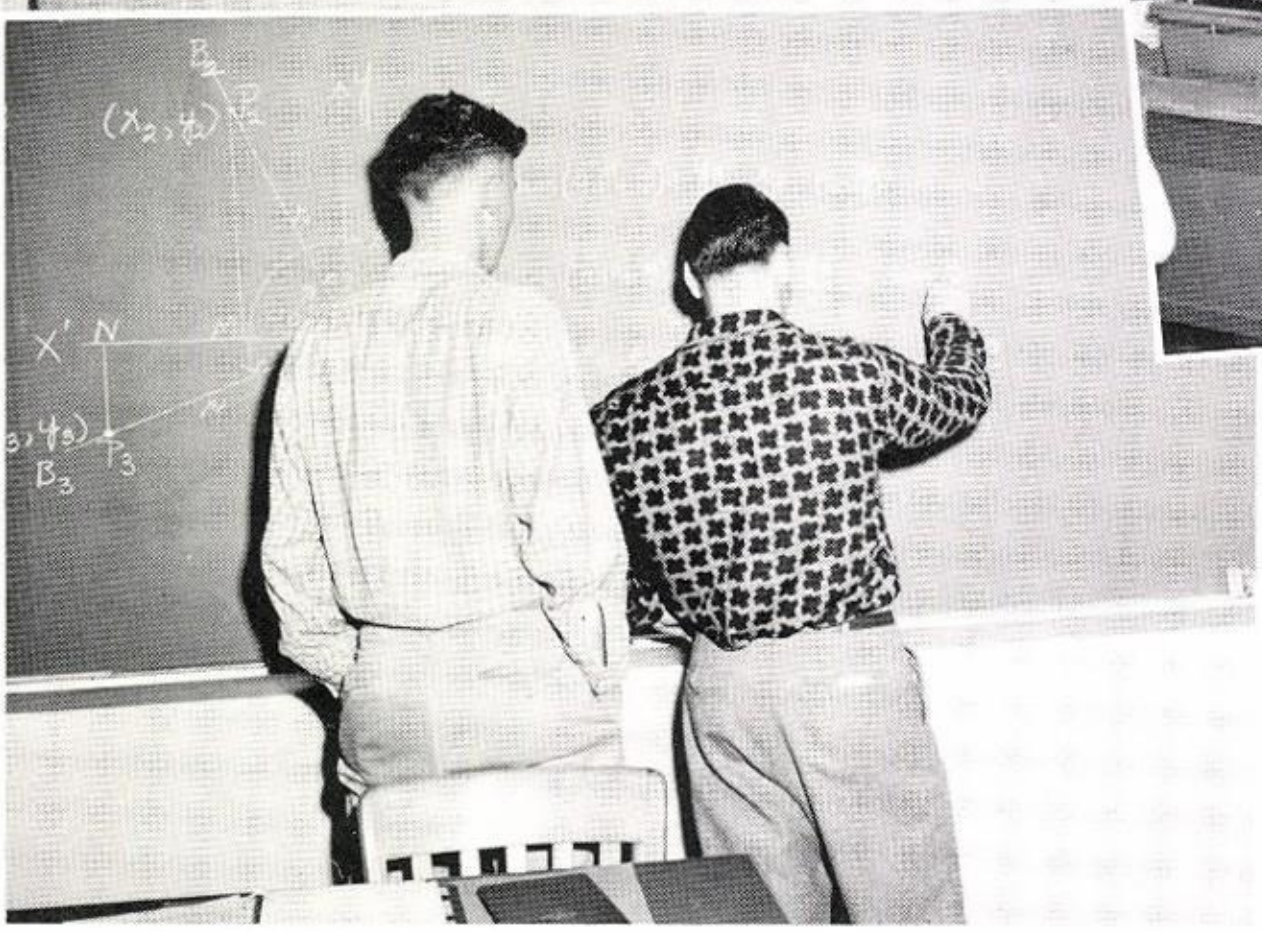
Global Geographers are aghast to find one country on the map not covered by their present course of study. Indignant, they make plans for a full unit next year on Lower Slobbovia.

Mr. Julian T. Myers—Speech, Chorus; Mr. John N. Neal—Wood Shop; Miss Eileen Nesbitt—Plane Geometry; Miss Marilyn R. Nicoson—English; Mr. Joseph Pagnanelli—Driving;

Miss C. Ada Patterson—Latin; Mr. Ernest E. Peterson—Typing; Mr. John F. Ramsey—Mechanical Drawing; Dr. John E. Reed—Driving; Miss Anne Rightmire—Plane Geometry.

Beakers, smoke, and test tubes tremble as Dr. Bromberick coaches a group of mad scientists in the noble art of blowing up the school.

The clicking of the typewriters was often heard in the third floor corridor as typing became even more popular to both commercial and academic students.



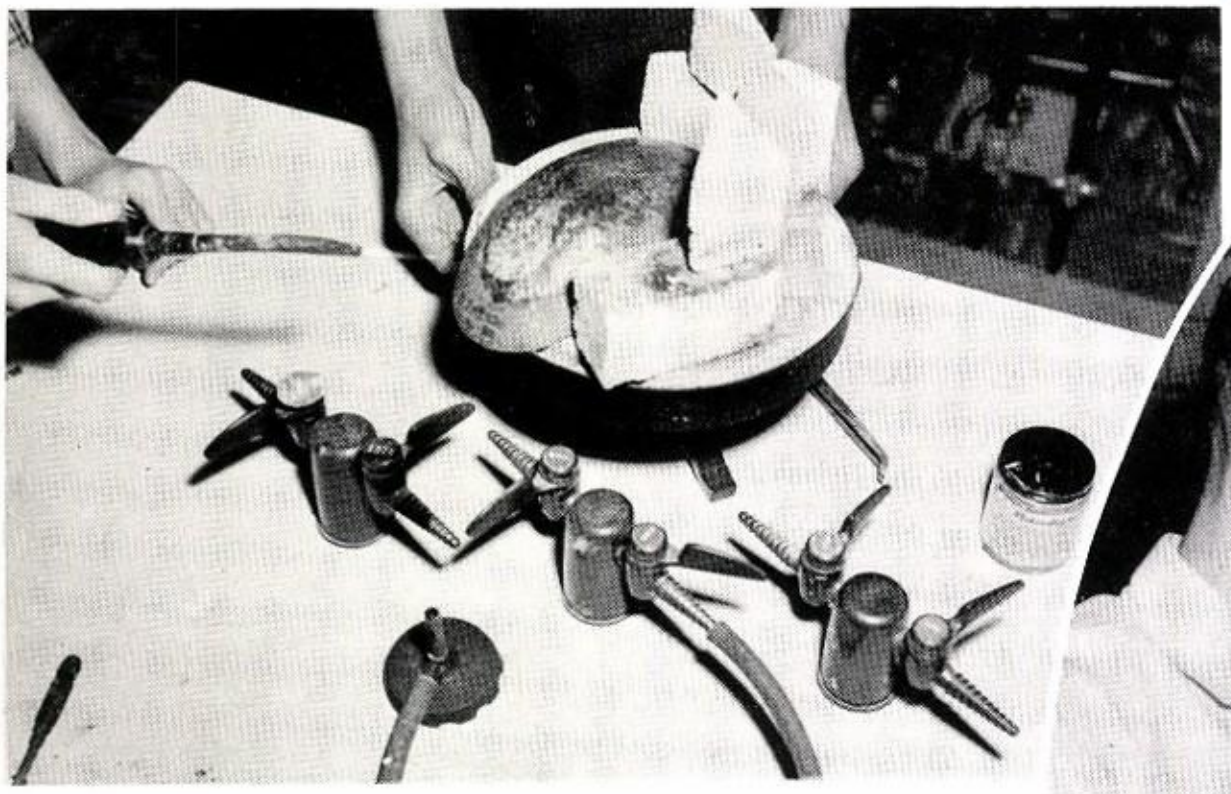
Solid geometry and trigonometry are two of the more diversified courses offered to seniors. Besides learning to distinguish "any line" from "every line," seniors have also been known to spend one "solid" hour learning how they can set a good example for our underclassmen.

Prospective secretaries and "lost causes" mumbled and scribbled through daily dictation and word lists until finally their hieroglyphics began to look like Gregg shorthand.

Mrs. Eleanor T. Rinne—English; Miss Rita M. Roegge —Spanish; Mr. Robert A. Ruth—Physics; Mr. Douglas Shaner — Metal Art, Art; Miss Donna Jean Shaver -- Gym;

Mr. W. Clyde Simpson—English; Miss Nancy Skeriotis —Gym, Girls' Health; Miss Sarah E. Smith—Solid Geometry, Trigonometry; Miss May K. Sneary—Chorus, English; Mr. Joseph A. Srp—Plane Geometry.

Mr. Albert N. Stanish—World History; Mr. Kermit L. Taggart—Civics; Mr. Kirk C. Tallman—World History; Mr. Thomas S. Taylor—Chemistry, Physics; Miss Mary V. Thorpe —Spanish.



An amorphous piece of metal must find its predetermined shape after all the pounding, grinding, sanding, and polishing to which it is subjected in this class.

Machine shop now only lacks the newly developed mechanical brains to run all this machinery.

Clever workmanship like that on the puppets shown here is the trademark of advanced art students.

Mr. Richard N. Toler—Civics; Mr. Richard Walker—Algebra, General Mathematics; Mrs. Josephine Watters—Chemistry; Miss Thelma Whinnie—Commercial Subjects; Mr. Earl L. Whipkey—Algebra.

Future Engineers of America? Maybe so; the boys are getting valuable training toward this end in the mechanical drawing classes.

Hurry! The period is almost over! These lucky girls are members of the one class in school allowed to eat in class.

This was a warm-hearted class, a gay class filled with the pink champagne of success, bubbling with a sense of achievement, glorying in the approval of underclassmen and faculty.

And yet there were tensions: the endless search through bulletins, the brief conferences, the applications, the days of waiting, and finally the promise of a future.

And there were the happy moments. The open houses, the progressive dinner, the championship game that left them heart-broken but proud, and the wild hilarity of senior week, were all a part of a mental scrapbook that would last. The experience of ecstatic moments and anxious hours formed a cord around their hearts that grew painfully tight the night of graduation.

Ahead lay the unknown; behind, the indelible mark of high school experience.

social butterflies and mental giants

The class of '57 after another year at Mt. Lebanon High School was still a study in contrasts. One found either social butterflies or mental giants. Occasionally there was that rare creature who combined the talents of both groups.

The class boasted a few world travelers, several football stars, a potential Einstein, a future Hemingway, a new Cleopatra, and a Brando that would make even Marlon sit up.

At the year's end the class of contrasts looked forward to making "their year" the most unique of all.

tomorrow's promise

Having celebrated a glorious "9-A" day as "big wheels" at Mellon, the sophomores were thoroughly convinced that their entrance into Mt. Lebanon's Senior High would be a grand and triumphant spectacle. The conservatives were not so easily convinced, however, and much of the early life of Mt. Lebanon's sophmores was spent in attempts to prove their mental, social, and physical prowess.

Soon, however, they settled into a more normal pattern and were quietly assimilated into high school life.

At the year's end sophomores began to look longingly at a new year when they would sit as judges of a new crop of world-beaters.

A new "first" came to Lebo when Bob Aymin took World History and Algebra by a special intercommunication system between his home and the school.

not with a whimper but a bang

T. S. Eliot wouldn't like the reversal, but it's true. Robbed of the opportunity of being the "Mighty Men of Mellon," the ninth grade came bent on vengeance. Unaccustomed to the method of less supervision but more self-control, they giggled in the library, ran in the halls, and were late for classes. Some found their way to Student Court. But there was the positive side, too. Many distinguished themselves scholastically and in sports. At the year's end they were ready to be sophisticated sophomores.

to build and strengthen . . .

Our athletic program offers a variety of benefits to the students of Mt. Lebanon High School. Strengthening the muscles, building co-ordination, and improving skills are the physical benefits of sports. The boys on the football team trained their bodies and minds intensely for the football season. Through concentrated practice, the rifle team learned how to pinpoint their shots. However, athletic activities are not purely body-building functions. Strengthening the mind is also important. Football formations must be memorized and basketball relays must be concentrated upon. More important than all other benefits is the effect which sports has upon the building of character. The basketball team learned the value of playing "clean." The football team learned to accept the sweetness of victory time and time again, only to meet the bitterness of defeat in the W. P. I. A. L. game. The boys on the field are not the only ones who profit from such an experience. The spectators — students and parents alike — acquire the qualities of good sportsmanship through suffering defeat and accepting their loss with good will.

"You Blue Devils, fight, fight, fight." With these words the cheerleaders spurred our football team to victory after victory. "Locomotive" kept the crowd alive at basketball games; our pep rallies were indeed a grandstand roar. With megaphones waving, they yelled their loudest and "all for Mt. Lebanon stood up and hollered."

Can we ever forget how our varsity cheerleaders, Nancy, Jane, Betty, Kit, Carol, Ginger, Donna, and Judy jumped to count the score at football games, or the way they cheered at the W.P.I.A.L. game?

Those girls deserve a "long ray" not only for their bolstering of school spirit but also for their winning of the district cheerleader trophy, By racking up a victory for themselves, this year's varsity cheerleaders proved how truly outstanding they were. Their trophy, the result of long hours of perfecting old cheers and developing new ones, is proudly displayed in the case as the first ever to be won by the girls of our school.

Not to be outdone, the J. V. cheerleaders were always on the field cheering their loudest at football games or on the floor yelling for the J. V. basketball team. Nan, Becky, Ann, Susie, Bonnie, Ann, and Lynn did a great job of telling everyone that their "team was on the beam!"

The 1955 edition of the Mt. Lebanon team was runner-up for the WPIAL AA Championship with an over-all record of 8-1.

After an opening exhibition loss to Homestead, the Mounties, under Coaches Fife, Stanish, and Lamprinakos, gave warning of things to come as they trounced Perry 69-0 thus setting a new school scoring record. Following another exhibition win over South Hills, the Blue Devils inaugurated a stiff AA season by whipping Penn 20-12. The succeeding week they dropped a strong Washington team from contention. In their next two tilts, the Mounties showed that they could come from behind by beating Wilkinsburg and Uniontown. The Blue Devils warmed up for the finale with West View by whipping Baldwin 34-12. The next week the Mounties wound up their regular season by crushing West View 31-13, dropping the heretofore unbeaten Indians from contention.

Two weeks later, the Blue Devils traveled to Pitt Stadium to play Aliquippa for the AA championship. Although more than 13 point underdogs, the Mounties outplayed their opponents for 3 quarters, leading 13-0 with but 7 minutes remaining. A desperation passing attack proved too much for the valiant Mount defenders, as they went down to defeat 14-13.

Senior players who sparked this great Mt. Lebanon aggregation were backs: Kraft, LaRue, Kaiser, Hanchey, Fitzgerald, Walsh, and LaMotta. Senior linemen were Walker, Kenning, Corbett, Kopcsak, Patterson, Albright, Kelleher, Shanklin, Squiller, White, Capt. Hartwig, Donahue, Wangeman, Graham, Beery, and Lester.

Some of the juniors who saw much action were Dempsey, Miller, Mayer, Reitz, Bracken, Dumm, Cusick, Hjerpstedt, Malarkey, and Mascaro.

Individual players who gained recognition were Walker, Shanklin, and Kraft, all being named to the first string all-WPIAL team, and LaRue, honorable mention, all-WPIAL. Two of these, Walker and Shanklin, were named on the all-State team.

Some of the many highlights of the '55' season were the running of the self-styled "dream backfield", Dempsey, Kraft, LaRue and Miller; the all-around lineplay of Walker, Shanklin, and Kelleher; the great team spirit and will to win shown by all the boys.

The junior varsity, under Coaches Bernhardy and Walker, finished the season with a respectable 3-4-1 record. This was the best record achieved by a Mt. Lebo J. V. aggregation in quite some time. On the whole, the J. V.'s played heads-up ball, and should provide extremely valuable varsity material.

Our fledgling freshman team, coached by Mr. Batchelor, finished their first season of high-school football with a 1-3-1 record. The record is deceiving because all of the losses were decided either by a break or by small margins. This freshman group has more potential than any other incoming class has ever had.

Mt. Lebanon's 1955 cross country team once more had a highly successful season. The Mounty harriers dropped the first meet to an outstanding Hickory team, but bounced back to defeat Canonsburg and Penn by perfect scores. Central Catholic then upset the Mounties, who went on to beat Connellsville, Ambridge, New Castle, and Aliquippa, the first two by perfect scores.

In the first big meet of the year, the Central Catholic Invitational, Mt. Lebanon finished a close third in a field of seventeen schools. Competing against eighteen schools in the W. P. I. A. L., the team finished second, high enough to send the entire squad to State College for the P. I. A. A. Championship Meet. Cary Weisiger, voted the team's most valuable member, placed tenth to pace the Mounties, who finished second. Excellent running by Bill Masterson, Dick Anderson, Jim Inderwish, Dave Moskowitz, John Van Vorst, and Bob Berwind also contributed to the success of this year's team.

The junior varsity had another good year, dropping only their first meet to an always rugged Central Catholic team. The J. V.'s breezed through the remaining meets against Ambridge, New Castle, Aliquippa, and North Allegheny, and then went on to win the W. P. I. A. L. JV crown. Bruce Callahan, Carl Greer, Frank Wadsworth, Doug Naismith, and Jim Campbell, who paced the little Mounties throughout the season, placed in the W. P. I. A. L. Meet.

Mt. Lebanon's first five at the P.I.A.A. Meet at State College were Inderwish, Masterson, Anderson, Van Vorst, and Weisiger.

With five returning lettermen, Coach Clark again brought the Mounty basketball team into a creditable position in the sectional standings. Mt. Lebanon, with seven wins and five losses, finished third in the Section IV race, behind Washington and Dormont.

Sparked by John Reid, team captain and most valuable player, the team jumped off to two quick exhibition game victories against Avalon and South Hills. They then ran into some tough opposition and finished the exhibition stint with a four and three record.

With the sectional race ahead, the team had strong offensive strength with John Reid, Jim Beery, Bob Alter, Bill Malarkey, and Rod Murtaugh. Bill Roscoe, Leo Wilson, Fritz Walker, and Tom Robinson were included in a strong defense. Providing relief for these starters were Butch Truesdale, Bill Rankin, Fred Wolff, Keith Pensom, Jack Garlitz, and Ed Corbett.

Two games will be remembered as high-lights of the 1955-1956 season. The first was the exhibition game with Uniontown. Steady offensive and defensive playing, plus thirty-five points by John Reid, helped the Mounties to gain a 62-52 verdict. The home game with Dormont was also a thriller. The underdog Mounties fought hard and at the end of the half they held a sixteen-point advantage. Led by Jim Beery, with twenty-six points, Mt. Lebanon finished the game 74-51 victors.

The Mounties finished a tough season with an over-all record of twelve wins and eight losses.

The J. V. basketball team, coached by Mr. Stanish, finished an exceptionally successful season with a record of nineteen wins and one loss. Mt. Lebanon averaged fifty-five points per game over the season, as compared with thirty-two for their opponents, thus showing very effective offensive as well as defensive strength. Playmaker Chuck Reinhold, setshooter Carl Greer, and pivot man Don Davis were outstanding in keeping the J. V.'s single loss to Washington by the close score of 40-37.

The ninth grade, coached by Mr. Watts, finished a fine season with a perfect record of thirteen wins and no defeats. Paced by Mike Kritscher and Danny Driscoll, the team finished at the head of their section for the first time. One of the best games played by the team was the last of the season against McKeesport, which they won, 42-38.

The Mounty thinclads finished the 1955 season by trouncing Peabody. This victory extended the Blue and Gold winning streak to eighty-one straight wins in dual, triangular, and quadrangular meets.

In addition to success in those meets, the Mounties also showed up well in the Bethany College and the W.P.I. A. L. Relays, where team depth counted. A somewhat disappointing fact about this year's team was that there were no outstanding individuals. This was the reason why Mt. Lebanon didn't win the Mt. Lebanon Invitational, the Allegheny County Independent Districts Meet, and the W. P. I. A. L.

Although Guy Giordano, who was elected most valuable member at the close of the season, started out very well, trouble with a blood vessel in his head soon dimmed his brilliance. Jim Short, star pole vaulter, broke his arm at Mansfield, thus robbing the Mounties of another member who could have been outstanding. Next year's co-captains, John Reid and Pete Kopcsak, as well as Bill Masterson, did very well, but they lacked the experience to really excel in any big meet.

This year's team, as usual, broke several records. The two-mile relay team of Hanchey, Giordano, Armstrong, and McCown finished first at Mansfield in the record time of 8:17.3. In the Tri-State Coaches Meet, the sprint medley team set a new record of 4:45.9. Members of this team were Giordano, Slater, Reid, and Karlovitz. The mile relay team of Giordano, Myers, Overholt, and Karlovitz also beat the former record, but finished second to Central Catholic.

The Mounties, with seven wins and four losses, finished the 1955 baseball season third in W. P. I. A. L. Section III standings, behind Washington and Chartiers. Because of the early-season injury of Schoeppner, the team was without his services. McNeish, the most valuable player and leading pitcher, helped in the outfield, on the mound, and at bat. Other outstanding players were Ziefel, Sterrett, Wolff, Grady, and Cusick. The most exciting game was with Washington, where Sterrett drove in the winning run in the last of the ninth.

For the first time since the championship team of 1953-54, Mt. Lebanon's chess team was undefeated in league play. This perfect record proved futile as Mt. Lebanon finished in second place, two points behind once-defeated Allderdice. Dave Reed was both league and team high scorer.

Mt. Lebanon's 1955 tennis team climaxed another successful year by beating Beaver, 4-1. The young but promising Mounties easily copped their first two matches, but found the opposition tougher as the season advanced. Connellsville accounted for two of the team's losses, the other one being to Shadyside. The final record of four wins and three losses was very respectable in the extremely tough league. Senior Frank Coleman and sophomore Ed Hartman held down the first and second courts, while Cal Smith, Ted Linn, Bill Hall, Ray Pierson, and John Connelly battled for the remaining positions. Only two lettermen will be lost by graduation.

The Lebo golf team finished the season with one of the most outstanding records in its history as it succeeded in winning 9 matches while losing only one. Paced by the Captain and Most Valuable Plaver, Dave Owens, the local quintet suffered their only loss at the hands of Brentwood in regular season play, but lost to the same team in the section playoff. Coached by Mr. Burrows, the team consisted of lettermen Dave Owens, Wally Samuels, Rod Murtaugh, Art Humphreys, Dave Dole, and Butch Truesdale.

The 1956 rifle team averaged over 497 out of 500 for the entire season, as compared with 492 for the opposition. Both Coraopolis and Munhall edged the Mounties by scant margins, however, and the team finished third with a 4 - 4 record.

The first match of the year, against Munhall, was the most thrilling one. The Mounty marksmen fired a near perfect 499, but it was not quite enough to beat the state champions' 500.

Gary Turnquist, who was elected most valuable team member, paced the squad with a very good 99.5 average. The Mounty cause was helped by Tom Bradley, who averaged 99.4, and Norman Fuss and Jim Reynolds, who both averaged 99.0. The 3:20 bell rings — doors everywhere fly open, and girls run uninhibitedly down the halls and into the gym as if a huge magnet were drawing them. The reason for all the excitement is the G. A. A. athletic tournament. Games like basketball, tenniquoit, and volleyball are among the main events. But the after-school sports are only a part of the G. A. A. program.

This year the Girls' Athletic Association was rushed into a mad social whirl of events starting with the Halloween Party and continuing through to the Rock 'n Roll Dessert. Everything from Gay Nineties' outfits to Roaring Twenties' attire was seen at the Halloween Party held in the early fall. In March all the G. A. A. members joined together for a 'crazy' time at the Rock 'n Roll Dessert.

The LANTERN's sidekick, the DEVILETTE, showed the more personal side of school life and served, admittedly, as the school gossip column. Edited by Betsy Bennett, Helen Gilbert, and Marguerite Blomgren, the DEVILETTE recorded for posterity a "Who's Who" of Mount Lebanon High School socialites.

the eyes and ears of the school

Janet Ackenheil, Puck Hartwig, Sally Hornell, Sue Turner and Odette Kingsley as editors of the LANTERN carried the responsibility of its management.

Its pages filled as always with school news, sports, and interesting feature articles, the LANTERN completed another successful year at Mt. Lebanon, this year with Odette Kingsley as its editor. Staffed by Sue Turner, Maria Liadis, Sally Hornell, and Judy Hall, the LANTERN presented many interesting and informative articles in the easy-reading style which has come to be its hallmark. Each issue sported a well-balanced dispersement of entertaining features, the factuality of competent news stories, and some items which incorporated the best features of both. Sports was handled by Pucky Hartwig, who had the good fortune of seeing all of Mt. Lebanon's teams stand out in their individual fields. Carol Rohm was the scribe of the eye-catching LANTERN editorials, her second year at the job. Other features included a dabbling in poetry, a sports quiz, and verbal sketches of Mt. Lebanon's brighter lights. Also in the three-cornered LANTERN package was a SCHOLASTIC ROTO, a syndicated magazine which brought to Mt. Lebanon the teenage styles, ideas, and trends of the entire country.

One of the most demanding tasks of any high school is the production of the newspaper. Like mothers, their work is never done, and Bonnie Raymond, Judy Hall, Nancy Reed, and Jean Ray are a few of the leading LANTERN troubleshooters.

Maria Liadis gathers in her cub reporters Dorothy Clark, Bill Masterson, Joan Jackson, John Reid, Carol Rohm and Carol Wright to hand out news assignments for a future edition of the LANTERN.

It is said that 7/8 of an iceberg is under water. Such is the state of the LANTERN, also. The finished product shows only a fraction of the work involved. Norman Fuss, Carl Gottschall, and Bob Tate, DEVILETTE mimeographers and LANTERN photographer, respectively, are mainstays in the "behind-the-scenes" work, which is the backbone of the LANTERN.

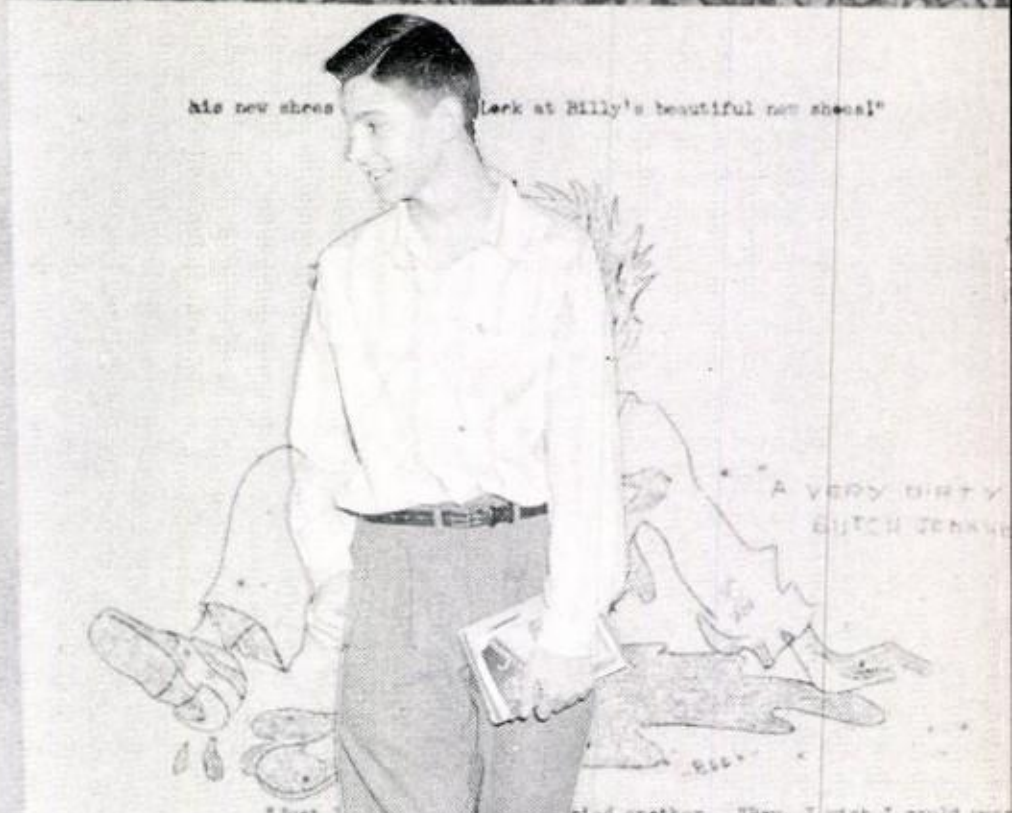
Mimeographing — a task requiring neatness and speed as well as muscles to turn a crank — fell this year to editors Carl Gottschall and Norm Fuss, Phil Gottschall, and Dave Reed.



Editors of the 1956 MOUNTY were Barbara Greene and John Ratigan. Having served a year in apprenticeship, they stepped into the job this year to do industrious organizing and editing.

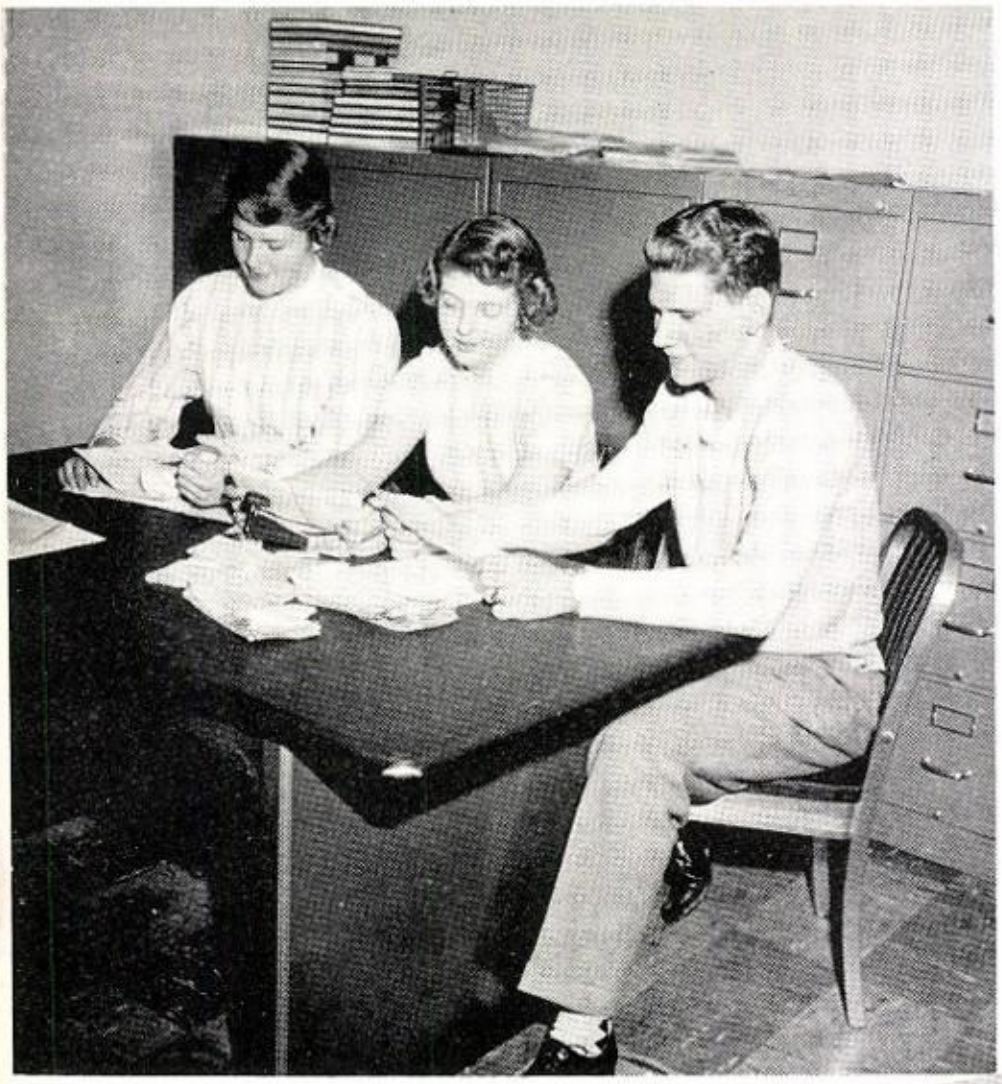
In 1956 the MOUNTY continued its policy of selling year-long subscriptions in the early fall. This year, however, sales were stimulated by a five dollar stipend given as a prize to the seller of the greatest number of subscriptions. As a result, sales reached 475, and the MOUNTY reached a peak of prosperity not known for many years.

Although MOUNTY workers did not receive any of this wealth, they, nevertheless, shared in the camaraderie and fellowship which they enjoyed in their work. The mimeographers shared in blackened hands and smudgy faces, the staff in friendly arguments over what kind of type to use, and everyone in the controlled madhouse that was assembly.

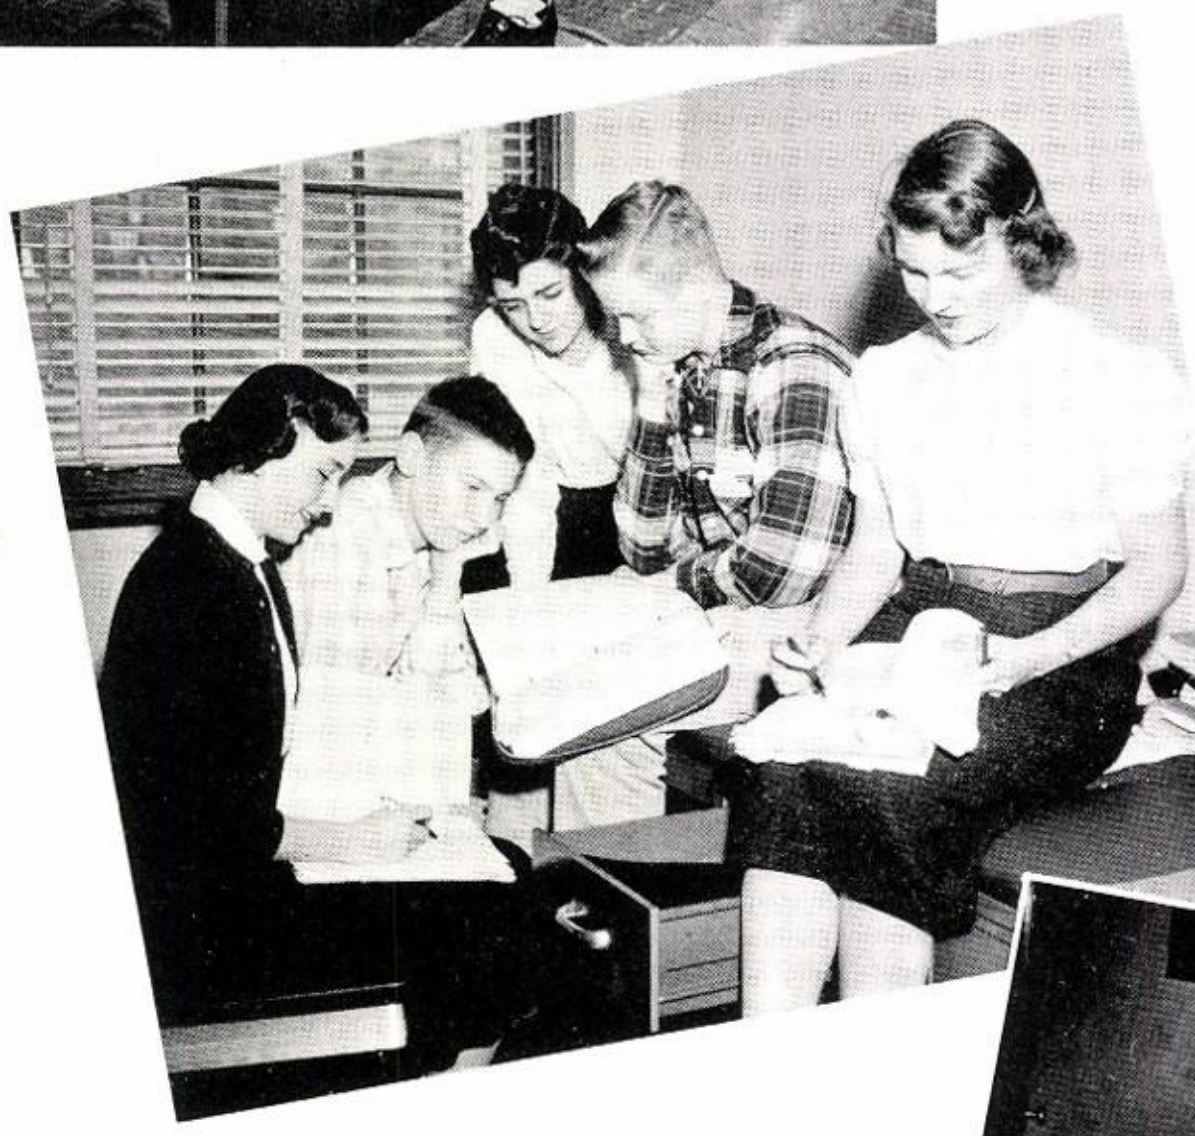
Next year, the MOUNTY will welcome, with open arms, the addition of a new mimeograph machine to replace the former one, which had served in a rather fickle faithfulness for the past few years.

No doubt the biggest job on the MOUNTY, next to the editorship itself, is the typing, handled very capably this year by Janice Paulsen and Linda Miller.

180 days in 160 pages



After inveigling 1500 students to "buy a Log," the Business and Circulation staff scrutinizes "the take." Peggy Galey, Dorothy Clark, and Bill Hoffman carefully count and recount the money to make sure that no poor soul has forgotten to make his final payments.

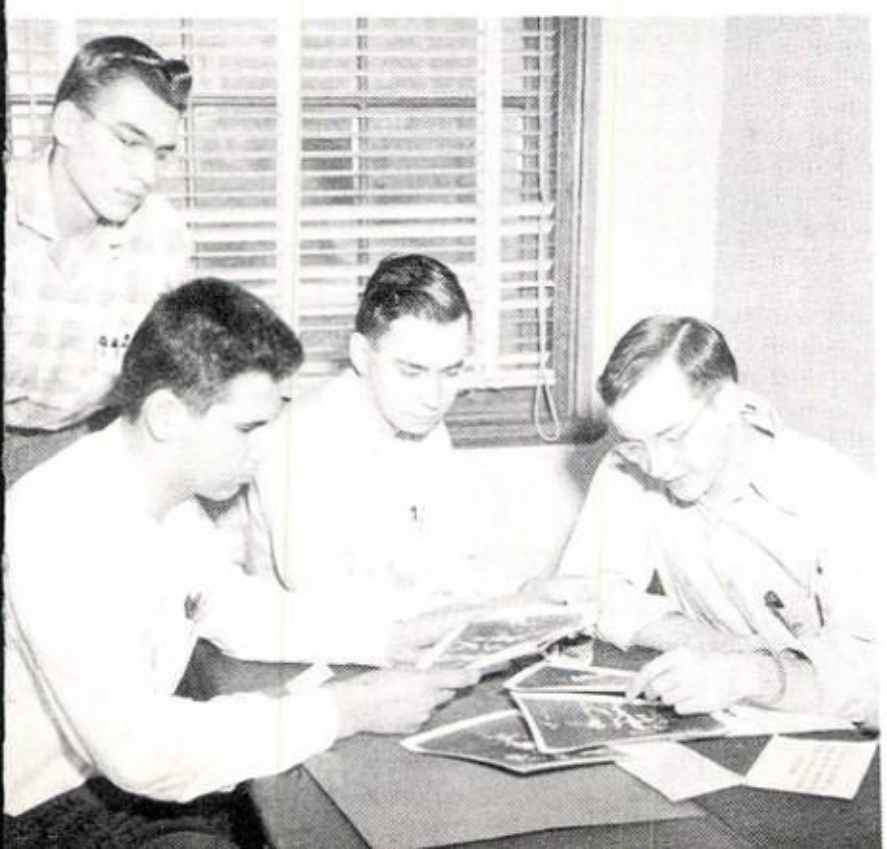


Knowing that the Log "accepts nothing inferior," Ann Stearns, John Ratigan, Jo Rider, John Frame, and Jan Powers, as members of the Literary staff, compliment one another on their superior work.

Ned Garnhart, Bill Bennett, Sarah Blackmun, and Diana Lynch, members of the abstract art staff are fitting their most abstract ideas into the abstract design theme, which runs through the pages of this year's abstract Log.

Assuming his best thinking position, each member of the Editorial staff sets his mind to another complex task. Ann types the calendar as Beverly draws it up to scale for future reference. Carl and Hettie supervise this serious typing task while Ginny casually picks up papers with her toes.

If your head was cut off in one of those "students in action" pictures perhaps the Log photographers were responsible. Dale Herrington, John Watters, Bob Tate, Malcolm Fraser did a very professional job of supplementing the work of our professional photographer, the familiar Mr. Rosser.

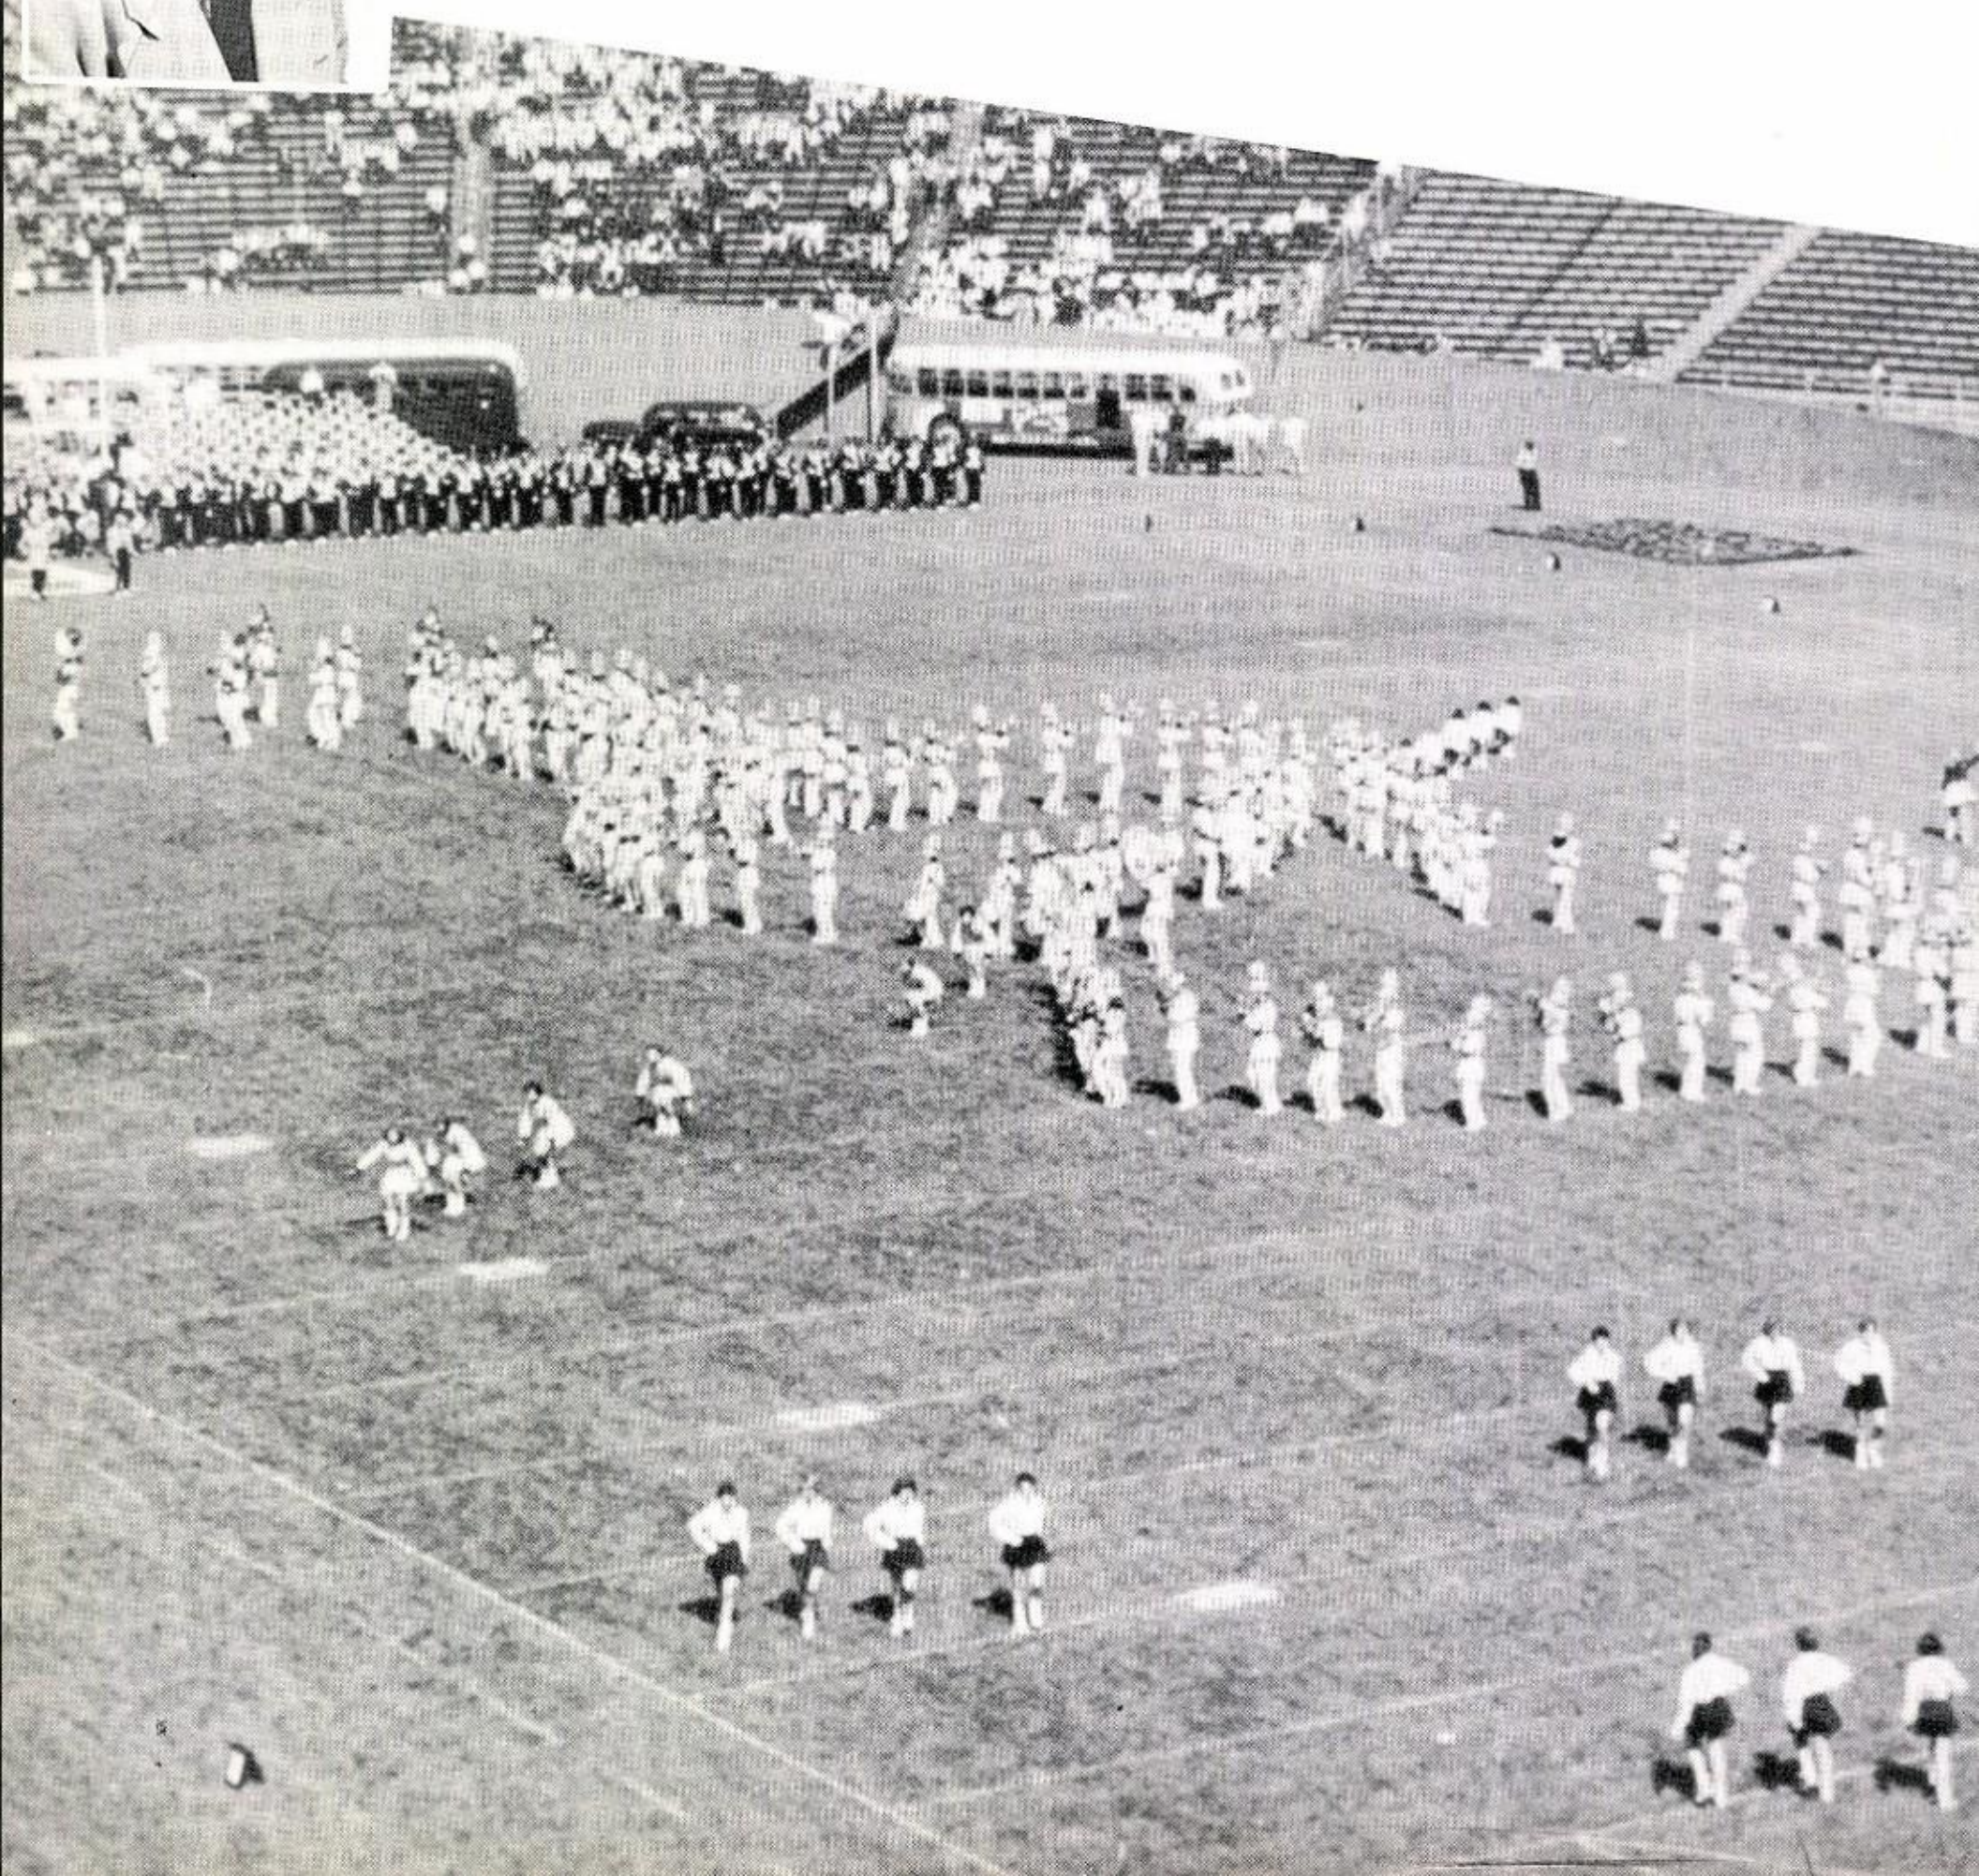


Hard work and teamwork — every yearbook must have them to be a success. The will to put out a good book produces the hard work, while the congeniality of the staff results in the teamwork. The 1956 LOG staff, with these traits and the guidance of their sponsors, published the "new Lebanon LOG" to meet the modern trends in journalism. 1956 was a year of these radical changes: abstract design theme; expansion to accommodate modern layouts with pictures that speak to the reader.

To balance the hard work — the long hours spent after school worrying over deadlines, poring over picture schedules, and debating the merits of different layouts—were the hot dog feasts following serious Saturday sessions at the editors' homes and spontaneous witticisms bandied about in the Log office.

All the problems and all the fun were overshadowed by the staff's feeling of pride and accomplishment when the finished yearbook was finally presented to the students.

music marches in formation



Rachel Miller, drum captain; Kathy Knoch, drum major; Joyce Arnold, majorette captain; Linda Rowe, assistant drum captain; were the backbone of our band.

With another successful year folded into history, the nationally famous Mt. Lebanon High School Band, under the direction of Philip R. Prutzman, has again proved itself to be one of the finest musical organizations in the nation.

The marching band, the Range Rockettes, and the majorettes, with a total membership of 188 persons, combined to provide our high school with the largest marching unit in its history. In addition to quantity, the Mounty group possessed quality of an unprecedented degree.

Besides appearing in the half-time shows of all our local football games and at their annual Band Revue, this year's edition of the white-clad marchers represented the University of California in the football game at Pitt. Extended by the Alumni Association of Berkley, California, this invitation made possible the high school band's fourth coast-to-coast radio and television appearance in as many years. Rounding out the marching season was a guest showing at the Robinson Township "Band Revue".

Following a football season filled with honors and awards, the band members and Mr. Prutzman settled down to serious concert work. Featuring all new and outstanding publications, the organization's Annual Concert, held on March 2, brought thundering ovations from the packed auditorium.

In this concert a select group, called the Blue and White Band, also appeared. Consisting of 48 of the finest wind instrument performers in the school, this band thrilled the audience with a meticulous rendition of serious music. The Blue and White Band also performed at such out-of-town engagements as the Shrine Concert in the Terrace Room of the William Penn Hotel.

It has not been unusual for Mt. Lebanon Bands, under the leadership of Mr. Prutzman, to present many "firsts". This year has been no exception. Making its first appearance at the concert was our new 16-piece dance band. This organization, led by student-director Jack Henderson, added to the concert and helped round out the band program.

The class of '56 can truly be proud of their band and its members, for they have left behind a reputation for unexcelled performances.

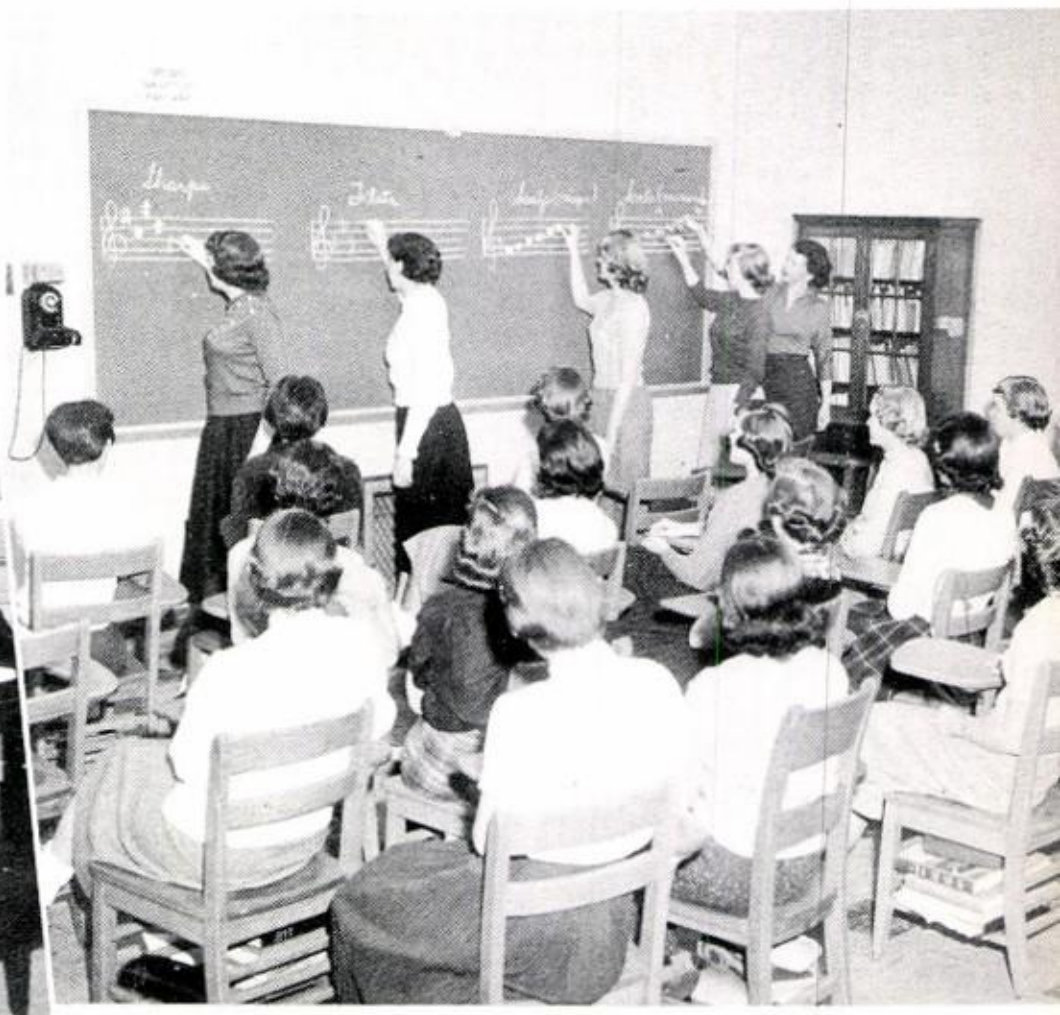
voices blend in harmony

As do-mi-so's and ah-oo-oh's reverberated from Room 217, first period, one could easily guess that Miss Sneary was tuning up her "A" or mixed chorus. Not long after warm-up drills, however, the chorus could be heard harmonizing anything from "Dis Train", a Negro spiritual, to patriotic anthems like "Salute to America". "A" chorus was a fine reward for students who spent a term in one of the two preparatory choruses, "B" or "C". Just as a rookie must get his baseball experience in the minor leagues before he bats for the Yankees, likewise, "A" chorus members learned the basic fundamentals of harmony and sight reading in "B" or "C" chorus.

Although the choruses were not able to give their annual presentation of "Messiah", they made radio broadcasts and had the spring show to look forward to.

Three cheers to the choruses — Do! Mi! So! or better yet—Ah! Oo! Oh!

(Seated) Marilyn Briant, Alice Ann Myers, (Standing) Alison Young, Barbara Moeller, and Mary Clo Oakes, were the pianists for this year's chorus events.



Although we did not hear the Devotional Choir sing often the first semester, the group still functioned and practiced their songs. After the P. A. system began working, we were able to hear the members of the Devotional Choir as they interpreted various hymns and anthems in song. Working side by side with the Devotional Squad, these singers gave us many devotional programs for our inspiration.

FORMAL CONCERT ARTISTS
SEATED: Miriam Kelly—soprano; Sally Mellor—mezzo-soprano; Cathie Hebley—accompanist; Anne Forrester—French horn. STANDING: Linda Greer—pianist; Judy Singer—violinst; Alice Ann Myers—accompanist; Vic Hill—organist; Mary Clo Oakes—accompanist; Jim Forrester—accompanist; Jerrine Ehlers—flutist; Marilyn Masterson—flutist; Ella Wilson—soprano.

When nine girls dressed in black taffeta, rhinestone jewelry, and high-heeled shoes bustled down the halls, everyone knew ,that the Triple Trio had a singing engagement. In addition to school programs, the Trio entertained at various churches, clubs, conventions, and hospitals. Selected on a highly competitive basis, the members and reserves of this group spent many hours, under the capable direction of Miss Sneary, practicing for programs.

Mt. Lebanon's orchestra was recognized this year as being one of the top high school orchestras in the state. Under the able direction of Mr. Arthur Yagello, this group has grown by leaps and bounds and now numbers about sixty members. The orchestra performed at the Civic League Christmas program and a Lecture Society appearance. Highlighting a most successful year was the annual spring concert. Several members of the orchestra won honors for themselves and the organization by being named to outside orchestras whose personnel came from all over the Tri-State area. Representing the school at the Western District Orchestra Festival were Carol Klaber, Judy Hall, Marilynn Klostermeyer, and Dave Owens. Carol was then chosen also for All-State Orchestra. In the chair-for-chair concert of the 1956 Pittsburgh Symphony Junior were Judy Singer (concertmistress), Marilynn Klostermeyer, Anne Forrester, Carol Klaber, Linda McIntire, Dennis Halliwell, John Connor, and Dick Miller.

found: a lost department

The Office of Medicinal Herbs (OMH) may not go down in the annals of history with the WPA or CCC, but it will long be remembered by the cast of the Senior Class Play, Two Blind Mice. For three and a half weeks, they lived and dreamed of Washington's bureaucracy, and their respective parts in the play. They practiced constantly and diligently, and, under the direction of Mr. Myers, turned an easy failure into a smooth-flowing play. The "Standing Room Only" audience watched as the plot slowly unfolded, showing an abolished government office run by the Two Blind Mice, Aunt Letitia and Aunt Crystal, who existed solely on the revenue obtained by renting rooms to a rhumba teacher, a laundress, a large family, and a car-parking service. Complications arose when Army, Navy, and State Department stepped in, along with Senator Kruger. But in the end, they lived happily ever after. This year's cast found, to their relief, that a bad dress rehearsal is not a prerequisite for a successful show.

"Are you sure this is a government office?"

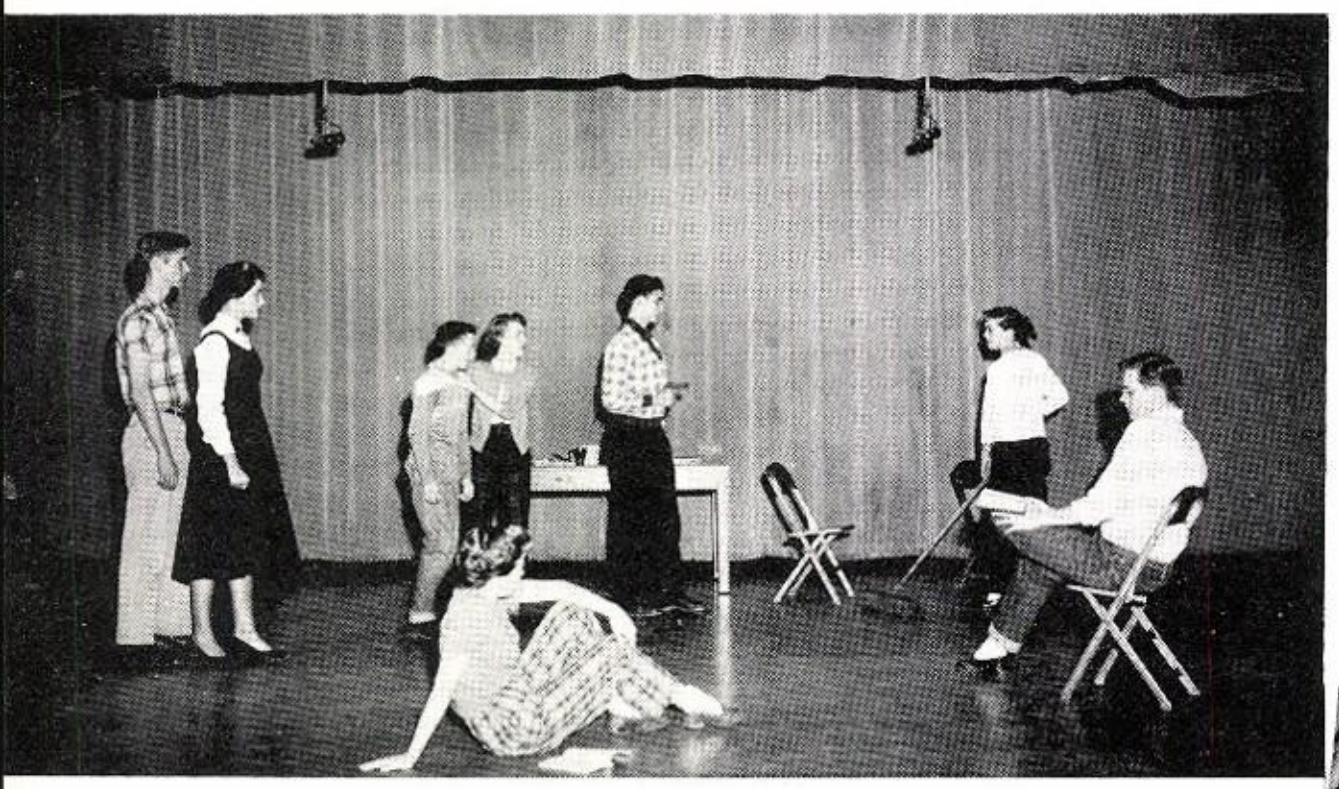
"Yes, sir."

The cast of Two Blind Mice was: Linda Greer, Dick Bromwich, Carol Powers, Paul Arnold, Nancy Wood, Dave Lewis, Betsy Beidler, Don Hanchey, Stephana Norris, Geof Lutz, Kathy Knoch, Mary Bescher, Bill Bennett, Amy Muncaster, Ted Linn, Myron Eicher, Norm Fuss, Hugh Fowler, Skip Williams, Rod Kerr, Ted Henderson.

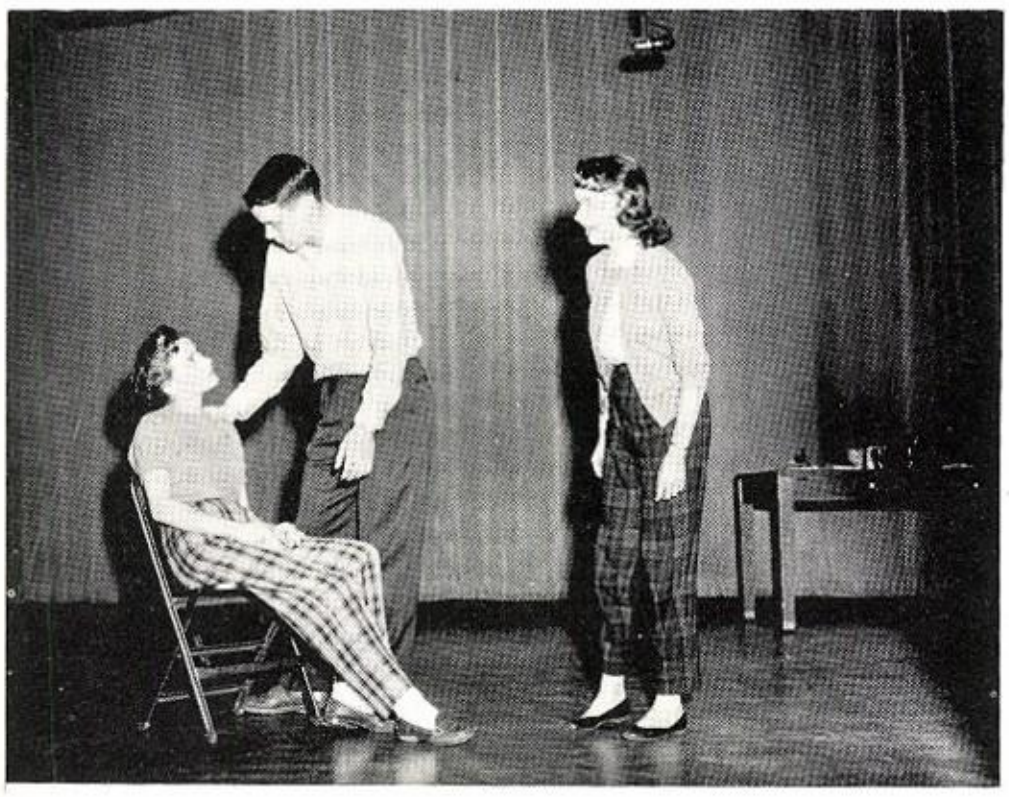
"What you need is a pinch of pip-sissewa!!"

"First of all, I'd like to know what you were doing over there in the wings when Carrie was stabbed?"



"Shoot me! What have I got to live for?"

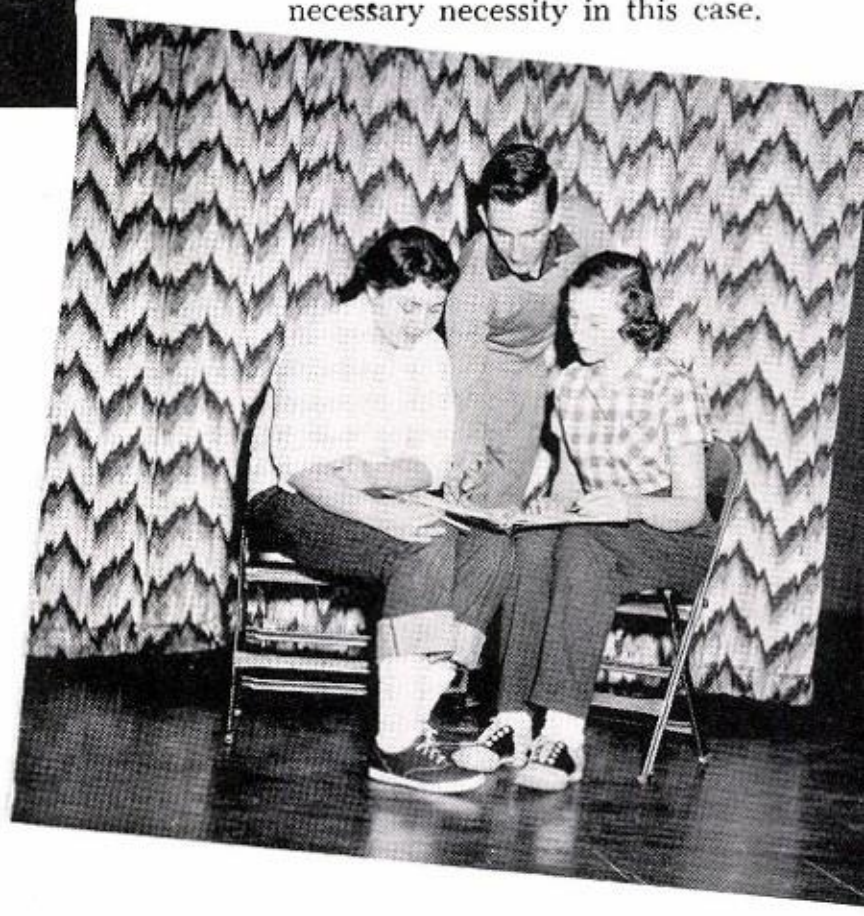
"Oh, am I interrupting anything?"



no,

"If you drink this, you'll never feel sick again."

These play pictures were taken from a new angle—at a rehearsal where Roberta, Paul (student director), and Laurel practiced prompting, an unnecessary necessity in this case.



the butler didn't do it

"See? Death in the tea leaves!"

The cast of this year's Activities Play, Rehearsal for Death, broke tradition in many ways. They put on a play without any setting. The cast acted some scenes in the audience and used nothing but two candles for lighting a scene. The candlelight, together with a few screams, a gun, and a knife, gave the desired effect of mystery. Rehearsal for Death was not only a "who-done-it," but it was also a "play about a play." Therefore, a ham actor could have a field day and, at the same time, provide the lighter moments.

Of course, the purpose of a mystery would have been defeated if the audience knew the identity of the murderer. Mr. Meyers came up with a solution by having the cast take an oath not to tell a soul "who-done-it." For four weeks it was the most closely guarded secret in Mt. Lebanon and completely disproved Benjamin Franklin's philosophy, "Three may keep a secret if two of them are dead."

fun in serving

Both the Y-Teen and the Hi-Y groups have service as the keynotes of their programs. Betas, Sigmas, and Deltas participated in the "Internatorama," a project to raise money for the United YMCA-YWCA Building Fund. The girls built booths representing different countries and sold articles typical of that country. The Hi-Y sponsored a student-faculty basketball game and gave their proceeds to the Building Fund. Not only did this raise the money for the "Y" but it also created a closer relationship between students and teachers.

The Y-Teens started off their year's events with a candlelight recognition service, while the Hi-Y attended a convocation at Heinz Chapel.

After such a good start, the groups settled down to a year full of excellent programs. The Betas, Deltas and Sigmas learned through speakers and movies. Subjects covered in their various programs were: the "Y"; fashion; religion, and detective work.

To add to the fun the girls had picnics, covered dish dinners, talent shows, and a hilarious variety show. The Hi-Y discussed problems of high school life and used movies for illustrations.

Enjoyable times were had by all the members as they worked together to serve their community.

Miss Manning, Miss Frobese, Mr. Taggart, and Mrs. Furlong devoted many after-school hours to the sponsorship of the Y-Teens and Hi-Y groups.

STAGE CREW

Dick Gibson and Bil. Newman

The Lebo stage crew needed more than "muscle and blood" as they moved the sixteen tons of sets at the school plays. Showing strong minds as well as strong backs, they set up the scenery with precision timing.

ACHIEVEMENT

Bathilda Davis

Members of the achievement squad eye the newspaper carefully for news and accomplishments of Lebo grads. These kids did a good job of giving credit to those who brought honor to our school.

CHEMISTRY

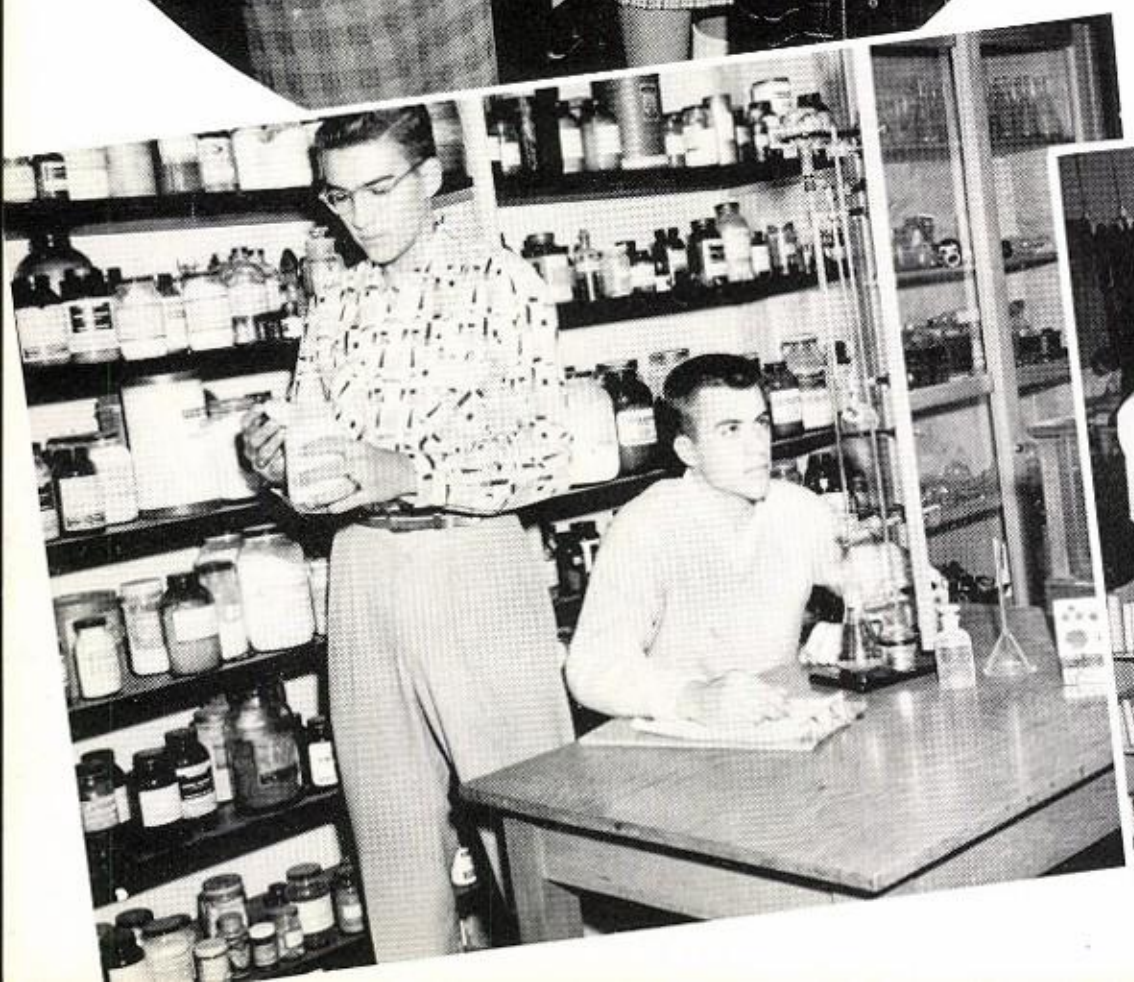
John Watters and Stuart Debenham

John Watters and Stu Debenham of the chemistry squad make confusometer fuel readings before blasting off for Venus. There, they hope to obtain some new chemicals for Dr. Bromberick's class demonstrations.

LIBRARY

Virginia Taylor

Library squad members work frantically to fill their quota of overdue book notices for the day. Besides distributing those little monstrosities, these kids did many other necessary chores around the sparkling new library.



SCHOLASTIC
Richard Holliday
Vic Hill decides he can do his scholastic committee work better when surrounded by girls, who seem to have no objection to the situation either. At this rate, the new honor roll should be done in no time.

BULLETIN BOARD
Cathy Lynch
Tacks, scissors, and paper in hand, the bulletin boarders begin to bedeck blank boards with brilliant beauty. These busy bees blend blues, blacks, and beiges, making better borders and balanced backgrounds which are beautiful to behold.

USHERS
These members of the Mt. Lebo usher squad handled the programs, tickets, turnstiles, and money at Mt. Lebanon sports events and other school programs.

WAYS AND MEANS
Bette Fitch and Dick Gibson
Members of the ways and means squad, during football games, sell to Lebo's sports fans all kinds of useful items for eating, drinking, reading, throwing, and getting hit with.

ATTENDANCE

Sue Beil

Attendance attendants tend their records of the tendencies of Lebo students to be absent or late. Activities of ten o'clock scholars and perennial hookeyists never slipped by these promoters of punctuality.

PROJECTION

Ray Dilworth and Rod Kerr

Men of the projection battalion, after fighting valiant, though sometimes losing; battles to keep older machines in running order for sixty minutes at a stretch, express confidence before tackling the complex workings of a new projector.

CAFETERIA

Lunch, one of the more interesting parts of the Lebo curriculum, was well presided over by these authorities on the subject. Beside them, we see some scholars in the course of taking a field trip through the chow line.

SOCIAL

Kathy Knoch

Members of the social committee, having thought of everything from a Sadie Hawkins Dance to a Prom Parisienne, wrack their fertile brains for more clever ideas for Mount Lebo social events.

MAKE-UP

Kathy Knoch and Betty Lurty

Make-up squad outfits Mount Lebanon's budding dramatists with wigs, whiskers, and warpaint, miraculously transforming Boris Karloffs and Marjorie Mains into Rock Hudsons and Marilyn Monroes.

MEDICAL
Carolyn Cobb
Readying scalpels, plasma, and ether, members of the medical squad appear calm, cool, and collected, as they prepare for major surgery in an acute case of Blisterium Pedis.

RED CROSS
Carlotta Van Voy
Unsatisfied with the recent hat styles from Paris, members of the Red Cross squad set out to make their own. These are not for themselves, however, but are for use at an orphans' party.

HOSPITALITY

After the hospitality committee laid out the welcome mat, the new kids at Lebo soon felt right at home and at ease with the teachers and other students.

ART

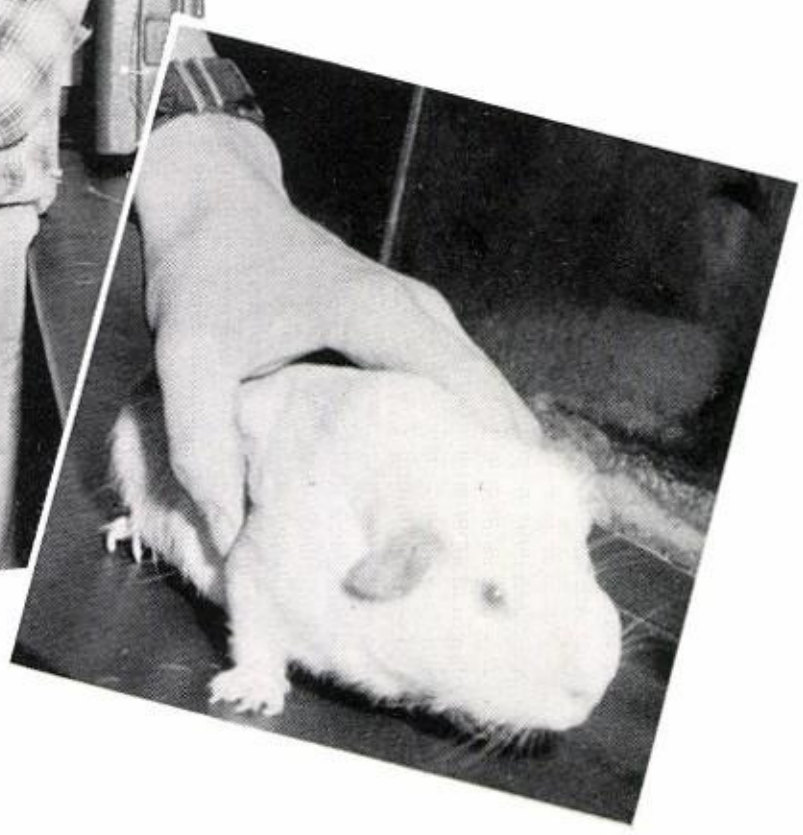
Diana Lynch

Art squad gives old Santa a hand by fixing up Christmas trees and smearing globs of glue wherever needed.

BIOLOGY

Sumner Dana

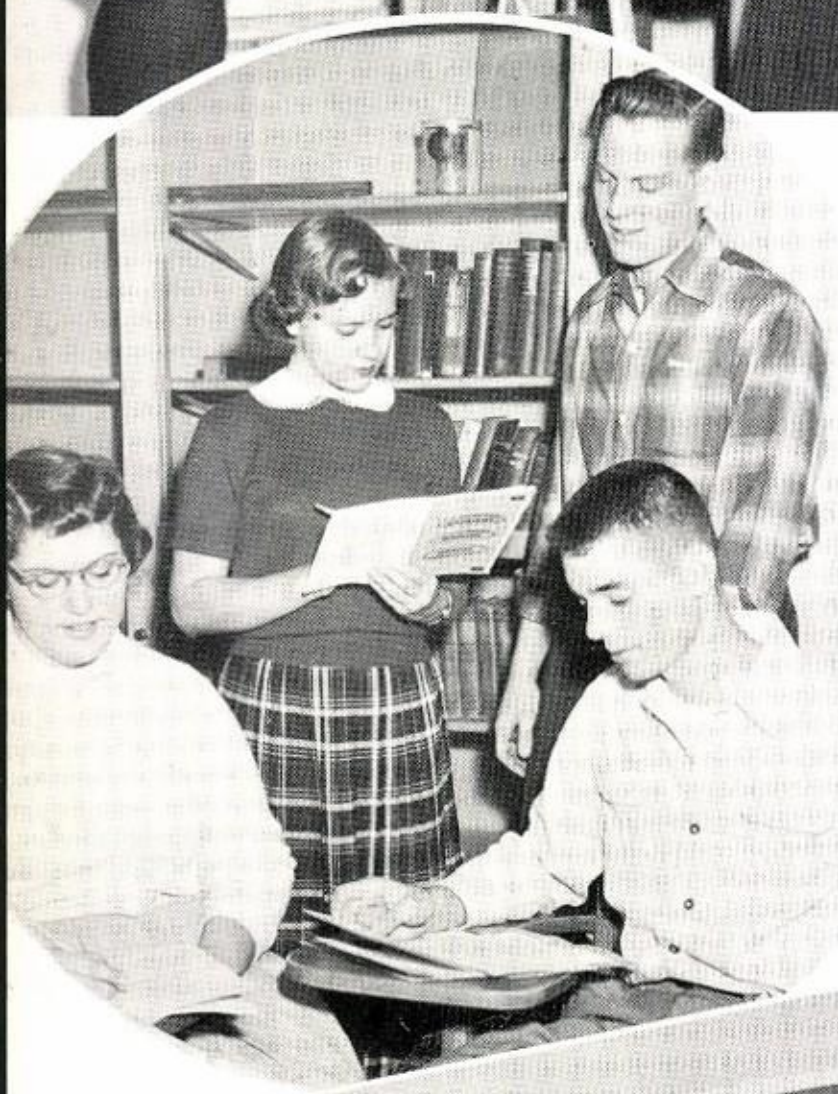
Guinea pig (right) examines biology squad (left). Unable to make any scientific deductions from such a short study of such complex specimens, he simply remarks, "Oh, what fools these mortals be."



DECORATION

John Rowe

Scotch tape, crepe paper, and wobbly ladders are the decoration squad's most familiar stand-bys in brightening our school.



PUBLICITY

Marian Warner

Members of the publicity squad concentrate on finding new ways to focus the eyes and ears of the world on Mt. Lebo. Our nationally known band and famous athletes made their job a bit easier this year.

PHYSICS

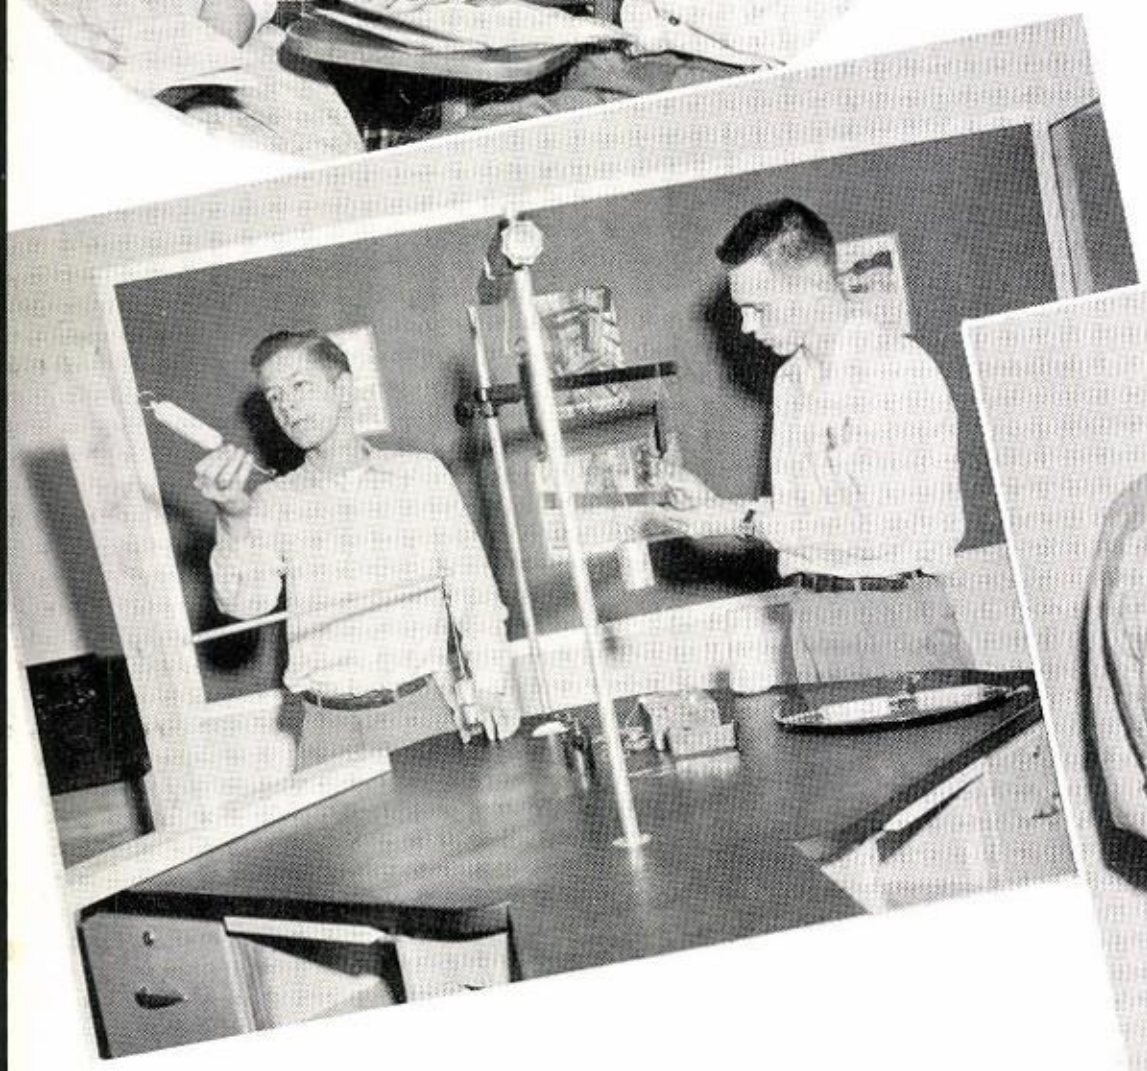
Carl Gottschall

Future Isaac Newtons and Albert Einsteins begin their contributions to the world of science by taking care of the new Lebo physics lab.

TRAFFIC

Ted Linn

Those terrific "squadders" became "squatters" when they tried to duck Lebo's number one problem—chaos in the hall.



STUDIO

Alan Rice and Sheldon Parker

L. B. S., the Lebo Broadcasting System, was fortunate to have such great talent on its announcing staff. Here, we see these stars of the squawk-boxes in the process of putting on one of their non-color "spectaculars."

HONOR AWARD

Carol Anderson

"You load sixteen tons and what do you get?" Well, in Mt. Lebanon you'll probably get about fifteen activities points. Here we see the diligent members of the honor award committee tabulating these points for keys and guards.

DEVOTIONAL

Ellen von Ende

Devotional squad listens critically to a member presenting a new devotional program. Due to the lack of a P.A. system in Lebo's new "Greenboard Jungle," their devotional programs during the first semester were given by students in the homeroom.

PUBLIC ADDRESS

Mike Foley

No, this is not the cockpit of a bomber. The complex gadgets you see here are being operated by the Lebo P.A. squad to send "your regular announcements" through all the rooms.

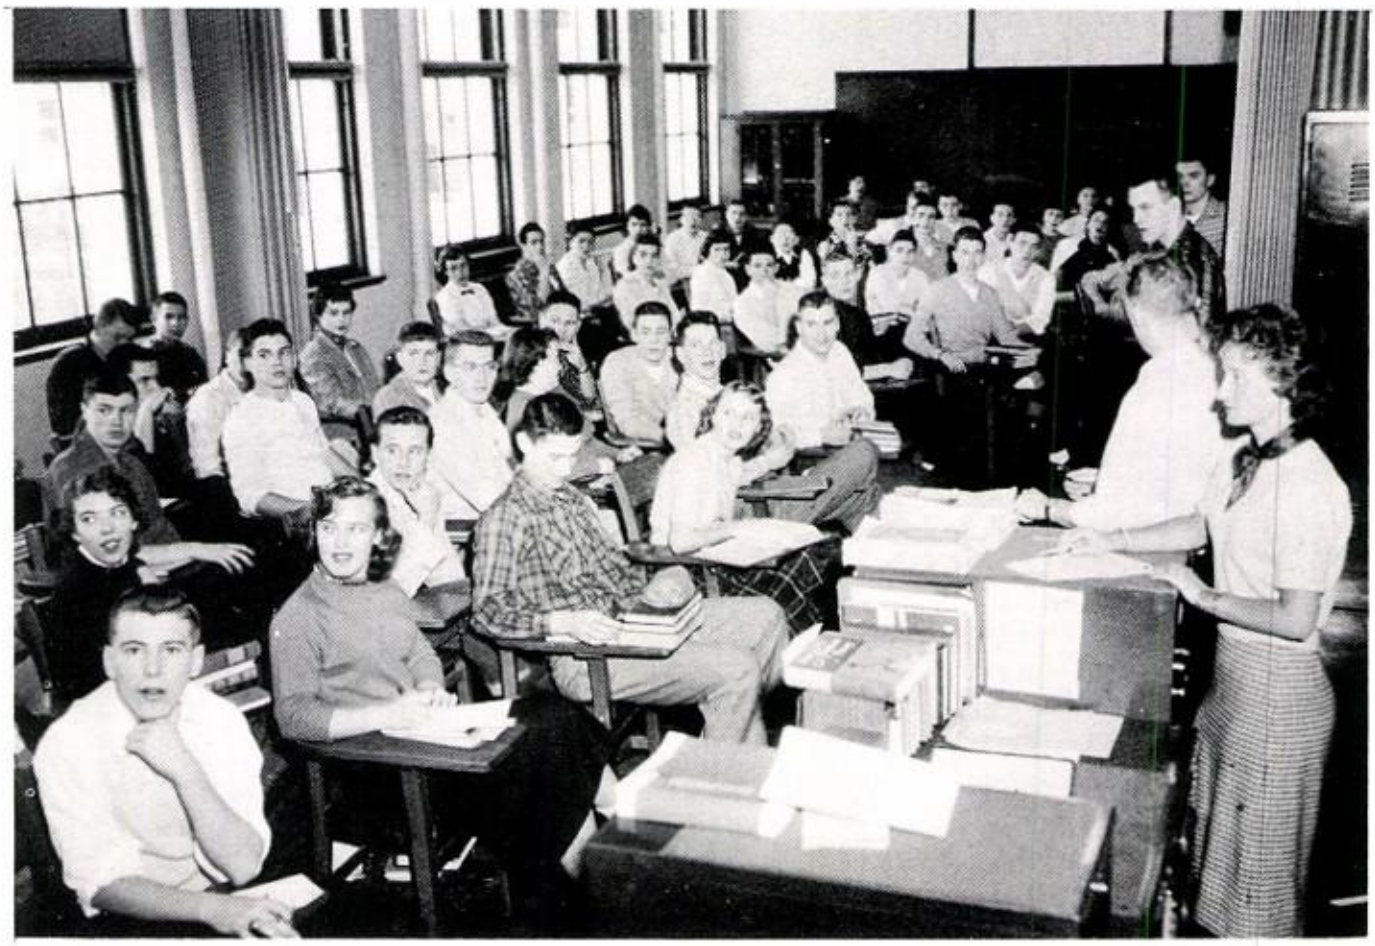
in action

It is cold, and melting snow slushes heavily underfoot. The days are November 28 and 29; the time, a little after 2:30. Mt. Lebanon's students trudge up the hills leading toward the auditorium at Mellon Junior High. Awaiting them there are nervous speakers, biting fingernails, straightening nylons, memorizing speeches. These speakers represent the first step toward the election of a new student government in Mt. Lebanon High. The speeches given on these two days give the students their only chance to become acquainted with the ideas, and jokes, of the candidates which they are soon to elect.

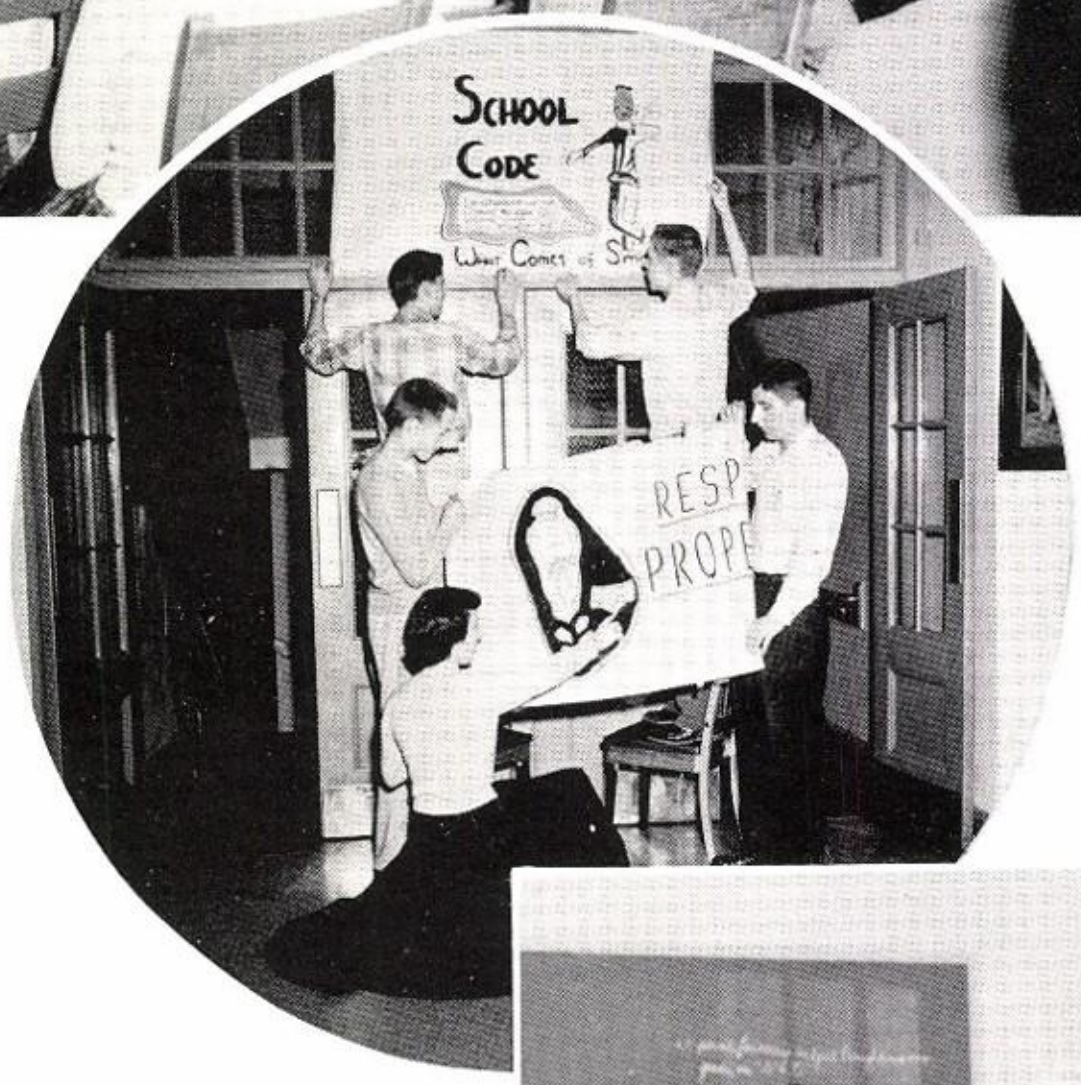
The speeches at Mellon are only the first step in the growth of a new Student Congress in Mt. Lebanon. The path of this growth is indeed an odd one, for it continually reverts to a center around which it travels in ever-broadening circles. That hub is the homeroom. From the homeroom come the stacks of small, yellow ballots. The x's have been placed upon the ballots in a homeroom period run by a homeroom president which the homeroom has elected. Mt. Lebanon's homerooms have taken the second step along the path to a new student government.

The third step comes a few weeks later. It is December, and cold, and Boreas is struggling to neutralize the heated fever for Christmas vacation. It is another homeroom meeting, and again the ballots were distributed. This time the students take a more personal interest, for they are electing those who will govern in the homeroom during the coming semester.

And then June comes—new candidates, new speeches, new ballots.



a law is born



in mt. lebanon

Like its system of electing officers, Mt. Lebanon's modus operandi is simple and direct. A hand raised timidly in a Student Congress meeting puts forth a suggestion. The president listens, and opens the floor for discussion. If the general consensus of opinion is that the suggestion is a good one, the plan is submitted to Dr. Mills. The next meeting brings a report of his reactions and reasons for same. If, to him, the plan seems impractical, it is dropped, unless the members of the Congress seriously object. Should he smile upon it, however, a committee is set up to study the possibilities more closely. In a matter of weeks, the committee submits its recommendations for discussion by the Congress. The committee returns to its work, carrying with it the suggestions emerging from the discussion. A formal statement is drawn up, then sent to the homerooms for their approval. Finally, the motion and the seconding of the Student Congress delivers the timid suggestion into the annals as law.

In every school—or team, or business, or any organization including a huge number of people—there are a few elite who stand out as leaders. Mt. Lebanon has such a group; their pictures appear on the pages which surround these words. They are the members of the National Honor Society, happy at winning the award, and, later, in the testing room, displaying the efficiency and skill which won their award. They are the Advisory Council in its frank discussion with Dr. Mills. They are the Student Court impartially hearing both sides of an out-of-order story. They are Activities Award winners proudly wearing their keys and guards; and winners of individual awards both in and out of school.
